IKE CALLS TRUCE TALKS RED TRAP

Reds, Big Push Halted, Throw Fresh Hundreds Into Battle

ROKs Forced Back After Retaking Key Hill

SEOUL, Thursday, Oct. 9 (AP) — Fresh Chinese infantry masses swarmed up the shell-scarred slopes of White Horse Mountain just before dawn today and won the crest of that key bastion guarding the Chorwon gate to South Korea.

SEOUL, Thursday, Oct. 9 (AP)—The big Chinese push jarred to a halt Wednesday in a carnage of casualties on a peak guarding the road to Seoul, but the Reds threw fresh hundreds into the flaming battle.

South Korean infantry at the point of the bayonet drove the Chinese from the summit of White Horse Hill, about 50 miles north of this Korean capital, and stood firm against a storm of counterattacks, field dispatches said.

Both sides poured thousands of infantrymen and dozens of tanks into the struggle for White Horse and nearby Arrowhead Ridge, where U. S. Second Division and French troops withstood the shock of human-sea attacks.

Red Casualties Heavy

An American officer said one division alone in this western sector had inflicted about 3,000 casualties on the Chinese since the Reds opened their big drive Monday night.

The U. S. Eighth Army communique reported that two of seven outposts hills overrun Monday when 15,000 Reds struck along two-thirds of the Korean front had been recaptured. Later tactical summaries indicated, however, that the Reds had rewon the positions.

Heavy fighting also broke out on the Central Front around Finger Ridge, where the Communists occupied two positions in the first onslaught Monday.

Eighth Army troops stormed back up the heights Tuesday night but lost them again in a battle of small arms and hand grenades Wednesday morning. A later Allied counterattack was stalled.

See-Saw Fighting

See-saw fighting also raged farther east for a height west of the Mundung Valley. The Communists atop the hill were battling with Allied troops which attacked after artillery and Allied warplanes had worked over the position.

The heaviest fighting, however, swirled about White Horse Hill and Arrowhead Ridge in the west.

The Republic of Korea's Ninth Division drove the Chinese from the crest of White Horse shortly before midnight Wednesday. They dug in then and fought back fierce Chinese counterattacks.

AP Correspondent Milo Farneti reported from the front that the Chinese were attacking with several regiments.

"Both sides are pouring in thousands of infantrymen, dozens of tanks and regiments of artillery into the Arrowhead Ridge-White Horse Hill sector," he wrote.

John Roosevelt To Speak For Ike

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (AP) — John Roosevelt, youngest son of the late Democratic President, said today he's for Republican Dwight D. Eisenhower for President and will make a speech for him Nov. 2 in New Haven, Conn.

Roosevelt, a distributor of colognes and soaps, said he voted for Thomas E. Dewey, the GOP candidate in 1948. Before that he backed his father, Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Soviet Jets Fire Warning Bursts At Hospital Plane

BERLIN, Oct. 8 (AP)—Two Soviet jet fighters made several passes at a Berlin-bound U. S. Air Force hospital plane over the Russian zone of Germany today and one fired machine-gun bursts, but the plane escaped undamaged into cloud cover and landed here safely.

The jets were MIG-15s, used by the Communists in Korea. The American ship, which does not carry hospital markings, was a C-47.

Hot Protest Sent Soviets

Maj. Gen. Lemuel B. Mathewson, U. S. commandant of Berlin, protested hotly to the Soviet command in Berlin, declaring "I demand that this unwarranted and uncivilized behavior of Soviet aircraft cease at once."

Mathewson told reporters the plane, bound from Frankfurt to Berlin to pick up nine Army patients and take them back to military base hospitals in Frankfurt, was on course and at a proper 7,000-foot altitude in the Allied flight corridor to Berlin when the challenge came over Koennern, Saxony.

In his protest, Mathewson acknowledged that unexpected winds might have forced the plane unintentionally off course.

Return Hop Without Incident

Pilot Capt. James P. Peterson, 33, Madison, Wis., told reporters in Frankfurt after the palne returned there later in the day: "They could have shot us down if they had wanted to."

The return flight was without incident.

It was believed in Frankfurt to be the first time since the war that Russian planes have opened fire on an American plane flying the Berlin corridor.

Soviet fighter gunfire ripped open an Air France line plane near the same area last April and wounded two German passengers.

Mossadegh Reiterates Oil Royalties Demand

TEHRAN, Iran, Oct. 8 (AP)—Premier Mohammed Mossadegh still wants 49 million pounds ($137,200,000) in disputed royalties from Britain, though he suggests payments could be sandwiched around a three-week conference here on oil claims and counter-claims.

He reiterated the demand in notes to London and Washington made public today. These implied the British must accept other terms he laid down in counter-proposals September 25 to a joint settlement offer from Prime Minister Churchill and President Truman.

U. N. "Neutrals" Asked To Fight

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 8 (AP)—Secretary General Trygve Lie today called on more United Nations members to contribute to the U. N. fight against the Reds in Korea and also advocated an armistice on the present battle line.

His views were made known in a preamble to his annual report to the 1952 General Assembly which opens here next Tuesday.

"Until there is an armistice," Lie said, "it is the part of wisdom and of duty under the Charter for members to carry on the fight for the attainment of these objectives and to do so with a more equitable sharing of the burdens."

Lie's comment on spreading the burden is in line with the United States' view that the 60-nation General Assembly should urge U. N. members not taking a direct part in the fight to contribute troops.

Truman Says Ike Opposes Federal Aid To Education

ABOARD TRUMAN TRAIN, Oct. 8 (AP) — President Truman tonight pictured Dwight D. Eisenhower and his supporters as opposed to federal aid to education at a time when the money crisis in the schools is approaching the "catastrophic."

Truman chose Jefferson City, in his home state of Missouri, to charge the Republicans with taking their stand "on the side of ignorance", which he called "freedom's worst enemy."

Earlier, at Shenandoah, Ia., he blasted the Republican presidential candidate's farm views as "generalities, platitudes, half truths and plain misrepresentation."

"This just goes to show," Truman told the Shenandoah Harvest Jubilee rally, "that in the field of agriculture as in so many other fields, the general doesn't know much about what's been going on in the United States during the 40 years he's been in the army."

In a prepared speech for a rear platform crowd at Jefferson City, the president said Eisenhower, then head of Columbia University, lent his prestige in 1949 to Republican congressmen opposing federal aid and his action helped defeat the bill.

Truman paused at Shenandoah, Ia., to deliver this major farm speech of his coast-to-coast whistle stop campaign accusing Eisenhower among other things of "cheap name calling."

U. S. Casualties In Korean War Reach 120,269

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—Announced U. S. battle casualties in Korea reached 120,269 today, an increase of 890 since last week.

That was the largest weekly increase since last July 2 and the second highest this year. It reflected the renewal of heavy fighting between the Communists and United Nations forces.

The Defense Department's weekly summary based on notifications to families through last Friday reported:

Killed in action, 18,893; wounded, 88,634, and missing, 12,742.

Adlai Charges Ike About-Faced On Europe Policy

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 8 (AP)—Gov. Adlai Stevenson rapped Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower tonight as grasping for votes with an about face on European policy — and displaying lack of backbone with a nameless endorsement of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy of Wisconsin.

"My opponent," Stevenson said, "has been worrying about my funnybone. I'm worrying about his backbone."

The raking attack on the general and senator closed out the Democratic presidential nominee's campaign for Wisconsin and 12 electoral votes.

In an address prepared for delivery at the Milwaukee Arena, Stevenson went after Eisenhower this way on American policy in Europe:

"No other issue reveals more strikingly the tactics in this election of the Republican leadership—the use of one man's good name to camouflage a bad record, and that man's willingness to compromise his own views in opportunistic grasping for support in this election."

Stevenson said his GOP rival actively backed every development in U. S. policy toward Europe from 1945 to 1952, then became a presidential candidate and "overnight he changed his mind about what he stood for."

The Democratic nominee backed into his slap at the Eisenhower alliance with the controversial McCarthy by giving a plug by name to Thomas E. Fairchild, the Democrat running against McCarthy for the Senate, and other party nominees on the state ticket.

Stevenson told his Milwaukee audience, and those on a 24-station radio hookup, that he intends to continue rooting and keeping out of government every person of questionable loyalty.

15 People's Policemen Flee To West Berlin

BERLIN, Oct. 8 (AP)—Fifteen people's policemen fled to West Berlin while the Communist East German force was parading down Unten Den Linden in new Soviet-style uniforms, it was disclosed tonight.

The Volkspolizei's army, navy and air units marched yesterday before Nikolai Shvernik, the Soviet Union's president, on the third birthday of the East German Republic.

The 15 "vopos" who escaped into Allied sectors in the excitement said they feared being transferred from police to military duty.

Six Killed In Crash Of Navy Patrol Plane

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP) — The Navy reported today that a patrol plane crashed in Newfoundland Monday, killing six of the craft's 12 occupants.

The plane crashed at the Argentia naval station while making a landing approach under reduced visibility, the Navy said.

The six survivors are in good shape, the announcement said, and have returned to duty after receiving treatment for shock.

Among the six killed was Lt. Alexander R. Kotko, Towson, Md. (sister's home).

Taft Calls Truman 'Master Of Demagogy'

SHENANDOAH, Ia., Oct. 8 (AP) — Sen. Robert A. Taft today described President Truman as a "master at the art of demagogy."

Speaking from a platform which the President had occupied only two hours earlier, the Ohio Republican charged that Mr. Truman "brings forward such a succession of misrepresentations that when you're answering one, three others have been made."

Taft termed Mr. Truman's campaign strategy a "technique of lying," and said the President "drags in bogey men like Wall Street lobbies."

85 Dead In British Rail Crash

Final Count May Hit 120; 170 Injured

HARROW, England, Oct. 8 (AP) — Two speeding express trains crashed into a crowded commuters' train within a few seconds at Harrow station today and killed at least 85 persons in a great cauldron of wreckage and hissing steam. Forty more may be found under the mass of debris.

The known toll of injured taken to hospitals was 170.

Late tonight, 16 hours after the wreck, rescuers still were digging into a 55-foot high mound of wreckage toward a coach buried at the bottom of the heap. Searchers figured probably 40 were entombed in the coach.

Death Toll May Reach 120

Officials said they expected the death toll might climb to 120 or so in this worst British railway disaster since May 15, 1915. A troop train and two passenger trains collided at Gretna, Scotland, on that date and killed 227 persons and injured 246.

Under the glare of the arc lights, workmen pumped oxygen into the mangled debris in Harrow station while rescuers with acetylene torches burned away entombing steel beams.

The wreck came at the height of the morning rush hour. A Scotland-to-London express, running 95 minutes late, screeched at 70 miles an hour into the rear coaches of a morning commuter train just pulling out of Harrow station.

Waiting Passengers Cut Down

Seconds later, a businessman's express, outward bound from London for Manchester, ploughed at 45 miles an hour into the steaming wreckage.

The impact hurled two big locomotives across the packed station platform, cutting down scores of waiting passengers.

The erupting wreckage, tossed into a great mound, tore down sections of an overhead foot bridge and spilled other passengers into the tangled mass.

The three trains together carried more than 1,000 persons, about 600 of them in the commuters' cars.

Hundreds—many of them school children—were trapped under tons of debris. In their desperation, rescuers at first tore at the wreckage with bare hands.

At Least Six Die In Bomber Crash

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 8 (AP)—An Air Force bomber, possibly a B-50, crashed near Wilsonville, south of Portland, late today, killing at least six men.

The huge ship, observed flying low, struck a 57,000-volt power line. The tail disintegrated and it crashed into a timbered farming area, scattering small debris over a square mile.

State police said six bodies had been recovered. It is possible that 10 or 11 men were aboard.

Fletcher Drew, construction superintendent for Bonneville at Wilsonville said the wreckage covered a 5,000 foot-square area.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 (INS) —Dr. Louis T. Wright, nationally-known Negro physician and chairman of the board of directors of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, died tonight at his Manhattan home. He was 61.

U. S., In Note To Russia, Says Ousted Ambassador Right In Criticism Of Restrictions

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP) — The United States told Russia today that Ambassador George F. Kennan spoke "accurately and in moderate language" when he gave the description of Moscow life which Kremlin used as a reason to demand his recall.

At the same time Secretary of State Acheson made it clear that the Kennan affair alone will not lead this government to send Soviet Ambassador Georgi N. Zarubin home or to break diplomat relations.

Many Other Considerations

He told Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) in a telegram that many other grave considerations would enter into such a decision. He added, however, that all phases of relations with Moscow will continue under examination. Knowland had demanded Zarubin's ouster and withdrawal of "recognition" from Russia in connection with the Kennan action.

The ambassador, in Berlin on his way to visit a daughter in Switzerland, told reporters that an American's life in Moscow is not much different from the experiences of American diplomats interned in Germany after Pearl Harbor. He cited especially the stiff measures to cut them off from contact with the Russian people.

Kennan "Persona Non Grata"

The Russian Foreign Office came back last Friday with a pronouncement that Kennan had made himself "persona non grata," or unacceptable as America's envoy. It called his comments "slanderous attacks hostile to the Soviet Union, in gross violation of generally recognized norms of international law."

Today's curt 180-word note rejected the Mocsow view and turned the charge of violation of international usage back on the Russians.

Even with such direct backing from Washington, however, Kennan is still out as active ambassador to Moscow. Envoys do not stay in — or go back to — capitals where they are in the "persona non grata" category.

14 Fliers Feared Killed

INVERNESS, Scotland, Oct. 8 (AP) —A Royal Air Force plane crashed into the sea while on air-sea firing practice today and it was feared that all 14 men aboard perished.

Truce Talks Appear Near Collapse After U. N. Calls Indefinite Recess

MUNSAN, Korea, Thursday, Oct. 9 (AP) — The long and frustrating Korean armistice negotiations today appeared to be nearer collapse than at any time since they began on July 10, 1951.

The Allied decision yesterday to call an indefinite recess was made on "higher authority" and came at a time when fighting in Korea reached its fiercest pitch in a year.

A special North Korean broadcast heard in Tokyo referred to "the failure" of the negotiations, charged that the Allies ignored a new Red offer, and declared responsibility "lies on the U. S."

It complained that the Allied delegation walked out while the new Red plan was being explained. Text of the broadcast showed, however, the Communists had not budged from their position that all prisoners of war must be repatriated, the last major issue remaining.

Officials in Washington said the "higher authority" was the U. S. government, which presumably acted after consulting other United Nations with troops in Korea.

Secretary of State Acheson told a news conference the suspension was "an affirmative step toward obtaining an armistice." He added the Allied team was ready to meet whenever the Communists agree to "an honest settlement" of the prisoner of war question.

The Allies left it squarely up to the Communists to revive the negotiations or let them die over the one unsolved issue of repatriating prisoners of war.

Allied delegates served notice on the Reds that they would not even journey to the Panmunjom conference table until the Communists say in advance what they wanted to talk about.

The recess was called by Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison, senior Allied negotiator, at the end of a 63-minute session.

UMW Says Suits Threaten Labor

CINCINNATI, Oct. 8 (AP) — The United Mine Workers union said today the entire labor movement is in peril from damage suits brought by employers under the Taft-Hartley law.

The union's convention heard a report by John L. Lewis, the organization's president, and other union officers estimating "at least" 200 million dollars worth of damage suits are pending against unions.

The barrage of money claims, the report said, amount to "an unparalleled threat to all labor."

The Taft-Hartley law allows damage claims against unions for breach of contract and illegal boycots.

Life Is Made Easier For Seven Top Nazis

BONN, Germany, Oct. 8 (AP)—Life has been made easier for the seven top Nazis serving war crimes sentences in Spandau Prison in Berlin, the Western Allies announced tonight.

The three Western high commissioners said they have obtained the agreement of Russian Gen. U. I. Chuikov to more visits and letters for the one-time leaders of the Reich.

They can now have one visit every month instead of every two months and visits can last 30 instead of 15 minutes. They will also be allowed to write and receive one letter each week instead of every four weeks.

U. S. Embassy Official Allowed To See Oatis

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP) — The Czechoslovak jailors of William N. Oatis, Associated Press correspondent, have permitted him to have a second meeting with an American Embassy official, Secretary of State Acheson disclosed today.

The newsman is held on a "spy" conviction which the Amreican government has denounced as a frame-up.

At the meeting, which took place yesterday at police headquarters in Prague, Oatis was assured that he has "not been forgotten" and that efforts to obtain his release are being pressed, Acheson said.

Kline Fined $7,500

BALTIMORE, Oct. 8 (AP) — Guy C. Kline, 41-year-old farm implement dealer at Myersville, Md., today was convicted of evading his federal income taxes and fined $7,500.

Kline was convicted by a jury of seven men and five women on an indictment which charged he evaded about $11,000 in income taxes for 1948.

U. S. Jets Guard Planes Hunting For Superfort

TOKYO, Thursday, Oct. 8 (AP)—Armed U. S. jets Wednesday guarded planes which swept the seas off Northern Japan hunting for a Superfort that vanished after being approached by a plane from Russian territory.

Only an oil slick off the northeast coast of Hokkaido was found, but the search was pressing despite bad weather.

Cautious Announcement

A cautious Air Force Headquarters announcement did not speculate that an unidentified plane which it spotted on radar was Russian. Nor did headquarters say the B-29, missing since Tuesday, was attacked.

It emphasized, however, that the "unidentified plane" came from the East — where the Russian — held Kurile Islands lie—that it intruded in Japanese territory, and that its tracks merged on the radarscope with those of the missing B-29.

The Air Force said that a distress call flashed from the Superfort, a crewman was heard to shout, "Let's get the hell out of here," and the bomber vanished from the radar screen. Then there was silence.

Search Planes Guarded

Immediately, search planes were sent out to cover the seas off Northeast Hokkaido, Japan's northernmost island. Armed Thunderjets in undisclosed force went along, alert for trouble.

The Air Force said the point where the radar tracks of the two planes merged was "about eight miles northwest of Nemuro, which point is in Japanese territory about 15 miles from the international border."

Nemuro is on the northeast tip of Hokkaido, separated only by a narrow strip of water from the closest of the Russian Kuriles.

Council Would Restrict Short-Session Agenda

BALTIMORE, Oct. 8 (AP) — The Legislative Council recommended today that the General Assembly consider only money matters in its short, even-year sessions.

Any other matters, the council said, should be brought up only if the governor proclaims that an emergency exists and if three-fourths of the members of each house agree.

'We've Been Swindled,' GOP Nominee Says

Says Enemy Gained Time For Buildup

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8 (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower blistered the Truman administration's foreign policy tonight, and declared that the truce talks in Korea were a "Soviet trap."

The Republican candidate for president said the negotiations in Panmunjom were designed to gain time for the Communists, that they have repaired their military position, and today are half again as strong as they were when the talks started.

"The Soviet trap was perfectly conceived, perfectly timed, perfectly sprung," he said.

"The Communist military position has been repaired. Beyond that, it has probably been made half again as strong . . . We came to realize that we have been swindled."

Key Campaign Address

The San Francisco speech was one of the key addresses in Eisenhower's whole campaign for the presidency. His political advisers were attaching heavy significance to it.

Eisenhower spoke in a tense hour, when it appeared the biggest Communist military action in more than a year had been launched in Korea.

Eisenhower pointed heavy guns at three major objectives in his San Francisco address.

1. He bitterly criticized and ridiculed the courses the administration has been following since the end of World War II, pouring particular scorn on Secretary of State Dean Acheson.

2. He explained, and defended, his own part in the making of these policies, and his role, as Army chief of staff, at the time the "defense perimeter" in Asia was drawn. President Truman has accused Eisenhower of now attempting to disavow his role in these vast decisions.

Defends Military Leaders

Eisenhower noted that the 38th Parallel — the mythical demarcation line between North and South Korea — runs through a point just north of San Francisco. He then launched into a discussion of the defense perimeter, hotly defending the military leaders in what he said was their limited responsibility for it. He said Parallel 38 now marks the border of our coast "defense perimeter."

"Scarcely more than two years ago," he said, "the present administration announced its political decision that the defense perimeter of America in that part of the world was a quite different line. That defense line did not touch Korea — or indeed, any part of the mainland of Asia — but ran through islands well off the continental shore."

"Blunder" By Acheson

Eisenhower said the joint chiefs examined the situation from a strictly military point of view. He emphasized the difference between a military situation — what you can defend — and a political policy — what you may intend to defend.

"The military has never decided questions of foreign policy," he said.

"I remember well that in 1947, the Joint Chiefs of Staff made a secret military appraisal of the strategic importance of Korea to our armies in the event of a general war. I was chief of staff of the Army at that time. As always, the joint chiefs were careful to refrain from political judgments that were beyond their authority."

But, Eisenhower continued, this appraisal, which he said was strictly military, was announced as a political policy three years later.

He indicated that he considers this a colossal blunder on the part on Secretary Acheson.

Taft Receives Bigger Hand Than Truman At Festival

SHENANDOAH, Ia., Oct. 8 (AP) — On a sun-drenched football field rimmed by hot dog stands, the President of the United States fought an old-fashioned battle of words today with the top campaigner for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

And judging from the applause that crackled from the packed wooden bleachers in this staunchly Republican Iowa town, Robert A. Taft of Ohio was an easy winner over Harry S. Truman in this unusual round of the struggle for the nation's bread basket vote.

Taft was applauded at least half a dozen times oftener than the President, and at the end got an ovation far louder than the wave of hand clapping for Truman.

Ten of thousands crammed the tree-shaded streets of Shenandoah for the speech-making and the free pancakes that are an annual feature of the town's harvest festival.

Truman, waving cheerily, rode at the head of a parade.

Taft, just as cheerily waving, rode far to the rear Lt. Herrick of the state patrol estimated the crowd at 25,000 to 30,000.

Adlai Charges Ike About-Faced On Europe Policy

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 8 (AP)—Gov. Adlai Stevenson rapped Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower tonight as grasping for votes with an about face on European policy — and displaying lack of backbone with a nameless endorsement of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy of Wisconsin.

"My opponent," Stevenson said, "has been worrying about my funnybone. I'm worrying about his backbone."

The raking attack on the general and senator closed out the Democratic presidential nominee's campaign for Wisconsin and 12 electoral votes.

In an address prepared for delivery at the Milwaukee Arena, Stevenson went after Eisenhower this way on American policy in Europe:

"No other issue reveals more strikingly the tactics in this election of the Republican leadership—the use of one man's good name to camouflage a bad record, and that man's willingness to compromise his own views in opportunistic grasping for support in this election."

Stevenson said his GOP rival actively backed every development in U. S. policy toward Europe from 1945 to 1952, then became a presidential candidate and "overnight he changed his mind about what he stood for."

The Democratic nominee backed into his slap at the Eisenhower alliance with the controversial McCarthy by giving a plug by name to Thomas E. Fairchild, the Democrat running against McCarthy for the Senate, and other party nominees on the state ticket.

Stevenson told his Milwaukee audience, and those on a 24-station radio hookup, that he intends to continue rooting and keeping out of government every person of questionable loyalty.

15 People's Policemen Flee To West Berlin

BERLIN, Oct. 8 (AP)—Fifteen people's policemen fled to West Berlin while the Communist East German force was parading down Unten Den Linden in new Soviet-style uniforms, it was disclosed tonight.

The Volkspolizei's army, navy and air units marched yesterday before Nikolai Shvernik, the Soviet Union's president, on the third birthday of the East German Republic.

The 15 "vopos" who escaped into Allied sectors in the excitement said they feared being transferred from police to military duty.

Six Killed In Crash Of Navy Patrol Plane

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP) — The Navy reported today that a patrol plane crashed in Newfoundland Monday, killing six of the craft's 12 occupants.

The plane crashed at the Argentia naval station while making a landing approach under reduced visibility, the Navy said.

The six survivors are in good shape, the announcement said, and have returned to duty after receiving treatment for shock.

Among the six killed was Lt. Alexander R. Kotko, Towson, Md. (sister's home).

Taft Calls Truman 'Master Of Demagogy'

SHENANDOAH, Ia., Oct. 8 (AP) — Sen. Robert A. Taft today described President Truman as a "master at the art of demagogy."

Speaking from a platform which the President had occupied only two hours earlier, the Ohio Republican charged that Mr. Truman "brings forward such a succession of misrepresentations that when you're answering one, three others have been made."

Taft termed Mr. Truman's campaign strategy a "technique of lying," and said the President "drags in bogey men like Wall Street lobbies."

85 Dead In British Rail Crash

Final Count May Hit 120; 170 Injured

HARROW, England, Oct. 8 (AP) — Two speeding express trains crashed into a crowded commuters' train within a few seconds at Harrow station today and killed at least 85 persons in a great cauldron of wreckage and hissing steam. Forty more may be found under the mass of debris.

The known toll of injured taken to hospitals was 170.

Late tonight, 16 hours after the wreck, rescuers still were digging into a 55-foot high mound of wreckage toward a coach buried at the bottom of the heap. Searchers figured probably 40 were entombed in the coach.

Death Toll May Reach 120

Officials said they expected the death toll might climb to 120 or so in this worst British railway disaster since May 15, 1915. A troop train and two passenger trains collided at Gretna, Scotland, on that date and killed 227 persons and injured 246.

Under the glare of the arc lights, workmen pumped oxygen into the mangled debris in Harrow station while rescuers with acetylene torches burned away entombing steel beams.

The wreck came at the height of the morning rush hour. A Scotland-to-London express, running 95 minutes late, screeched at 70 miles an hour into the rear coaches of a morning commuter train just pulling out of Harrow station.

Waiting Passengers Cut Down

Seconds later, a businessman's express, outward bound from London for Manchester, ploughed at 45 miles an hour into the steaming wreckage.

The impact hurled two big locomotives across the packed station platform, cutting down scores of waiting passengers.

The erupting wreckage, tossed into a great mound, tore down sections of an overhead foot bridge and spilled other passengers into the tangled mass.

The three trains together carried more than 1,000 persons, about 600 of them in the commuters' cars.

Hundreds—many of them school children—were trapped under tons of debris. In their desperation, rescuers at first tore at the wreckage with bare hands.

Rescuers Probe Train Wreckage

At Least Six Die In Bomber Crash

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 8 (AP)—An Air Force bomber, possibly a B-50, crashed near Wilsonville, south of Portland, late today, killing at least six men.

The huge ship, observed flying low, struck a 57,000-volt power line. The tail disintegrated and it crashed into a timbered farming area, scattering small debris over a square mile.

State police said six bodies had been recovered. It is possible that 10 or 11 men were aboard.

Fletcher Drew, construction superintendent for Bonneville at Wilsonville said the wreckage covered a 5,000 foot-square area.

Negro Leader Dies

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 (INS) —Dr. Louis T. Wright, nationally-known Negro physician and chairman of the board of directors of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, died tonight at his Manhattan home. He was 61.

U. S., In Note To Russia, Says Ousted Ambassador Right In Criticism Of Restrictions

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP) — The United States told Russia today that Ambassador George F. Kennan spoke "accurately and in moderate language" when he gave the description of Moscow life which Kremlin used as a reason to demand his recall.

At the same time Secretary of State Acheson made it clear that the Kennan affair alone will not lead this government to send Soviet Ambassador Georgi N. Zarubin home or to break diplomat relations.

Many Other Considerations

He told Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) in a telegram that many other grave considerations would enter into such a decision. He added, however, that all phases of relations with Moscow will continue under examination. Knowland had demanded Zarubin's ouster and withdrawal of "recognition" from Russia in connection with the Kennan action.

The ambassador, in Berlin on his way to visit a daughter in Switzerland, told reporters that an American's life in Moscow is not much different from the experiences of American diplomats interned in Germany after Pearl Harbor. He cited especially the stiff measures to cut them off from contact with the Russian people.

Kennan "Persona Non Grata"

The Russian Foreign Office came back last Friday with a pronouncement that Kennan had made himself "persona non grata," or unacceptable as America's envoy. It called his comments "slanderous attacks hostile to the Soviet Union, in gross violation of generally recognized norms of international law."

Today's curt 180-word note rejected the Mocsow view and turned the charge of violation of international usage back on the Russians.

Even with such direct backing from Washington, however, Kennan is still out as active ambassador to Moscow. Envoys do not stay in — or go back to — capitals where they are in the "persona non grata" category.

14 Fliers Feared Killed

INVERNESS, Scotland, Oct. 8 (AP) —A Royal Air Force plane crashed into the sea while on air-sea firing practice today and it was feared that all 14 men aboard perished.

UMW Says Suits Threaten Labor

CINCINNATI, Oct. 8 (AP) — The United Mine Workers union said today the entire labor movement is in peril from damage suits brought by employers under the Taft-Hartley law.

The union's convention heard a report by John L. Lewis, the organization's president, and other union officers estimating "at least" 200 million dollars worth of damage suits are pending against unions.

The barrage of money claims, the report said, amount to "an unparalleled threat to all labor."

The Taft-Hartley law allows damage claims against unions for breach of contract and illegal boycots.

Life Is Made Easier For Seven Top Nazis

BONN, Germany, Oct. 8 (AP)—Life has been made easier for the seven top Nazis serving war crimes sentences in Spandau Prison in Berlin, the Western Allies announced tonight.

The three Western high commissioners said they have obtained the agreement of Russian Gen. U. I. Chuikov to more visits and letters for the one-time leaders of the Reich.

They can now have one visit every month instead of every two months and visits can last 30 instead of 15 minutes. They will also be allowed to write and receive one letter each week instead of every four weeks.

U. S. Embassy Official Allowed To See Oatis

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP) — The Czechoslovak jailors of William N. Oatis, Associated Press correspondent, have permitted him to have a second meeting with an American Embassy official, Secretary of State Acheson disclosed today.

The newsman is held on a "spy" conviction which the Amreican government has denounced as a frame-up.

At the meeting, which took place yesterday at police headquarters in Prague, Oatis was assured that he has "not been forgotten" and that efforts to obtain his release are being pressed, Acheson said.

Kline Fined $7,500

BALTIMORE, Oct. 8 (AP) — Guy C. Kline, 41-year-old farm implement dealer at Myersville, Md., today was convicted of evading his federal income taxes and fined $7,500.

Kline was convicted by a jury of seven men and five women on an indictment which charged he evaded about $11,000 in income taxes for 1948.

Truce Talks Appear Near Collapse After U. N. Calls Indefinite Recess

MUNSAN, Korea, Thursday, Oct. 9 (AP) — The long and frustrating Korean armistice negotiations today appeared to be nearer collapse than at any time since they began on July 10, 1951.

The Allied decision yesterday to call an indefinite recess was made on "higher authority" and came at a time when fighting in Korea reached its fiercest pitch in a year.

A special North Korean broadcast heard in Tokyo referred to "the failure" of the negotiations, charged that the Allies ignored a new Red offer, and declared responsibility "lies on the U. S."

It complained that the Allied delegation walked out while the new Red plan was being explained. Text of the broadcast showed, however, the Communists had not budged from their position that all prisoners of war must be repatriated, the last major issue remaining.

Officials in Washington said the "higher authority" was the U. S. government, which presumably acted after consulting other United Nations with troops in Korea.

Secretary of State Acheson told a news conference the suspension was "an affirmative step toward obtaining an armistice." He added the Allied team was ready to meet whenever the Communists agree to "an honest settlement" of the prisoner of war question.

The Allies left it squarely up to the Communists to revive the negotiations or let them die over the one unsolved issue of repatriating prisoners of war.

Allied delegates served notice on the Reds that they would not even journey to the Panmunjom conference table until the Communists say in advance what they wanted to talk about.

The recess was called by Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison, senior Allied negotiator, at the end of a 63-minute session.

U. S. Jets Guard Planes Hunting For Superfort

TOKYO, Thursday, Oct. 8 (AP)—Armed U. S. jets Wednesday guarded planes which swept the seas off Northern Japan hunting for a Superfort that vanished after being approached by a plane from Russian territory.

Only an oil slick off the northeast coast of Hokkaido was found, but the search was pressing despite bad weather.

Cautious Announcement

A cautious Air Force Headquarters announcement did not speculate that an unidentified plane which it spotted on radar was Russian. Nor did headquarters say the B-29, missing since Tuesday, was attacked.

It emphasized, however, that the "unidentified plane" came from the East — where the Russian — held Kurile Islands lie—that it intruded in Japanese territory, and that its tracks merged on the radarscope with those of the missing B-29.

The Air Force said that a distress call flashed from the Superfort, a crewman was heard to shout, "Let's get the hell out of here," and the bomber vanished from the radar screen. Then there was silence.

Search Planes Guarded

Immediately, search planes were sent out to cover the seas off Northeast Hokkaido, Japan's northernmost island. Armed Thunderjets in undisclosed force went along, alert for trouble.

The Air Force said the point where the radar tracks of the two planes merged was "about eight miles northwest of Nemuro, which point is in Japanese territory about 15 miles from the international border."

Nemuro is on the northeast tip of Hokkaido, separated only by a narrow strip of water from the closest of the Russian Kuriles.

Council Would Restrict Short-Session Agenda

BALTIMORE, Oct. 8 (AP) — The Legislative Council recommended today that the General Assembly consider only money matters in its short, even-year sessions.

Any other matters, the council said, should be brought up only if the governor proclaims that an emergency exists and if three-fourths of the members of each house agree.

Taft Receives Bigger Hand Than Truman At Festival

SHENANDOAH, Ia., Oct. 8 (AP) — On a sun-drenched football field rimmed by hot dog stands, the President of the United States fought an old-fashioned battle of words today with the top campaigner for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

And judging from the applause that crackled from the packed wooden bleachers in this staunchly Republican Iowa town, Robert A. Taft of Ohio was an easy winner over Harry S. Truman in this unusual round of the struggle for the nation's bread basket vote.

Taft was applauded at least half a dozen times oftener than the President, and at the end got an ovation far louder than the wave of hand clapping for Truman.

Ten of thousands crammed the tree-shaded streets of Shenandoah for the speech-making and the free pancakes that are an annual feature of the town's harvest festival.

Truman, waving cheerily, rode at the head of a parade.

Taft, just as cheerily waving, rode far to the rear Lt. Herrick of the state patrol estimated the crowd at 25,000 to 30,000.

'We've Been Swindled,' GOP Nominee Says

Says Enemy Gained Time For Buildup

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8 (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower blistered the Truman administration's foreign policy tonight, and declared that the truce talks in Korea were a "Soviet trap."

The Republican candidate for president said the negotiations in Panmunjom were designed to gain time for the Communists, that they have repaired their military position, and today are half again as strong as they were when the talks started.

"The Soviet trap was perfectly conceived, perfectly timed, perfectly sprung," he said.

"The Communist military position has been repaired. Beyond that, it has probably been made half again as strong . . . We came to realize that we have been swindled."

Key Campaign Address

The San Francisco speech was one of the key addresses in Eisenhower's whole campaign for the presidency. His political advisers were attaching heavy significance to it.

Eisenhower spoke in a tense hour, when it appeared the biggest Communist military action in more than a year had been launched in Korea.

Eisenhower pointed heavy guns at three major objectives in his San Francisco address.

1. He bitterly criticized and ridiculed the courses the administration has been following since the end of World War II, pouring particular scorn on Secretary of State Dean Acheson.

2. He explained, and defended, his own part in the making of these policies, and his role, as Army chief of staff, at the time the "defense perimeter" in Asia was drawn. President Truman has accused Eisenhower of now attempting to disavow his role in these vast decisions.

Defends Military Leaders

Eisenhower noted that the 38th Parallel — the mythical demarcation line between North and South Korea — runs through a point just north of San Francisco. He then launched into a discussion of the defense perimeter, hotly defending the military leaders in what he said was their limited responsibility for it. He said Parallel 38 now marks the border of our coast "defense perimeter."

"Scarcely more than two years ago," he said, "the present administration announced its political decision that the defense perimeter of America in that part of the world was a quite different line. That defense line did not touch Korea — or indeed, any part of the mainland of Asia — but ran through islands well off the continental shore."

"Blunder" By Acheson

Eisenhower said the joint chiefs examined the situation from a strictly military point of view. He emphasized the difference between a military situation — what you can defend — and a political policy — what you may intend to defend.

"The military has never decided questions of foreign policy," he said.

"I remember well that in 1947, the Joint Chiefs of Staff made a secret military appraisal of the strategic importance of Korea to our armies in the event of a general war. I was chief of staff of the Army at that time. As always, the joint chiefs were careful to refrain from political judgments that were beyond their authority."

But, Eisenhower continued, this appraisal, which he said was strictly military, was announced as a political policy three years later.

He indicated that he considers this a colossal blunder on the part on Secretary Acheson.

Plane Builders Back Europe Aid

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP) — A spokesman for the nation's builders of airplanes urged the government today to extend aid to the European military production program through channels already set up by the industry.

Retired Adm. DeWitt C. Ramsey, president of the Aircraft Industries Association, said in an editorial in the association's monthly publication "Planes" that the so-called European off-shore procurement effort will, in any event, impose a severe tax on the facilities and time of domestic aircraft producers.

Ramsey said this will be a "far greater tax, for example, than would be required even in the case of technical assistance to a domestic licensee accustomed to American production procedures and standards."

Nevertheless, Ramsey said, the U. S. aircraft industry endorses the program of financing European aircraft production with American funds, as part of a "broad-scale rearmament and mobilization effort aimed at deterring Soviet aggression."

What Can He Do With Strip Of Land 40 By 13,300 Feet?

LORAIN, O., Oct. 8 (AP) —He says he doesn't know just what he will do with it, but Bill le Fever has bought a piece of land 40 feet wide and 13,300 feet long.

The strip runs from Lorain to Avon Lake, near the Lake Erie shoreline. It is part of the right-of-way of an old electric line.

He insists he has no immediate plans for the strip. The Lorain Journal "helpfully" suggests he could use it as a testing ground for a pipe or rubber band factory, for tightrope walking exhibitions or for carrier plane landing practice.

Retired Physician's Body Found In Cottage

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 8 (AP)—A body, apparently that of Dr. Henry Marshall Dixon, 81-year-old retired Washington physician, was found today at the cottage where he lived alone on Mill Creek, ten miles below Annapolis near Mayo.

Police were puzzled at finding a heavy table upside down in the living room, two large chairs overturned, a radio and a blanket on the floor.

A wallet, containing an undisclosed amount of money, and Dr. Dixon's watch and checkbook were on the floor.

Although he had lived alone there for several years, a cot had been set up in the living room.

Dr. Elmer G. Linhardt, Anne Arundel County medical examiner, estimated the man had been dead about two weeks. The body was sent to the state medical examiner in Baltimore for an autopsy.

Taxpayer's Suit Upheld By Judge

BALTIMORE, Oct. 8 (AP)—Judge Michael J. Manley today refused to throw out of court a taxpayer's $717,000 suit against the State of Maryland and owners of Pimlico race track.

The action amounted to a first round victory for Hyman Pressman, Baltimore attorney who filed the action as a taxpayer. He contends the money was improperly transferred from an improvement fund controlled by the State Racing Commission to a bank account held by the Maryland Jockey Club, operator of Pimlico. The money represents deductions from money bet at the track.

Former Atty. Gen. Hall Hammond ruled that the transfer was legal, and acting for the state, along with counsel for the jockey club, filed a demurrer, asking Judge Manley to throw the case out.

In overruling the request, Judge Manley said:

"It is doubtful that it was the intention of the Legislature to allow a licensee to make no repairs or alterations and thus accumulate a large equity in the racing fund over a period of time far in excess of the time limitations stated in the act, and thus have available a sum sufficient to pay the cost—or a very substantial portion thereof — of erecting an entirely new racing plant."

The jockey club has said it is definitely committed to use the money for improvements and has not done so, partly because of federal building restrictions and materials shortages.

What Can He Do With Strip Of Land 40 By 13,300 Feet?

LORAIN, O., Oct. 8 (AP) —He says he doesn't know just what he will do with it, but Bill le Fever has bought a piece of land 40 feet wide and 13,300 feet long.

The strip runs from Lorain to Avon Lake, near the Lake Erie shoreline. It is part of the right-of-way of an old electric line.

He insists he has no immediate plans for the strip. The Lorain Journal "helpfully" suggests he could use it as a testing ground for a pipe or rubber band factory, for tightrope walking exhibitions or for carrier plane landing practice.

Retired Physician's Body Found In Cottage

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 8 (AP)—A body, apparently that of Dr. Henry Marshall Dixon, 81-year-old retired Washington physician, was found today at the cottage where he lived alone on Mill Creek, ten miles below Annapolis near Mayo.

Police were puzzled at finding a heavy table upside down in the living room, two large chairs overturned, a radio and a blanket on the floor.

A wallet, containing an undisclosed amount of money, and Dr. Dixon's watch and checkbook were on the floor.

Although he had lived alone there for several years, a cot had been set up in the living room.

Dr. Elmer O. Linhardt, Anne Arundel County medical examiner, estimated the man had been dead about two weeks. The body was sent to the state medical examiner in Baltimore for an autopsy.

Taxpayer's Suit Upheld By Judge

BALTIMORE, Oct. 8 (AP)—Judge Michael J. Manley today refused to throw out of court a taxpayer's $717,000 suit against the State of Maryland and owners of Pimlico race track.

The action amounted to a first round victory for Hyman Pressman, Baltimore attorney who filed the action as a taxpayer. He contends the money was improperly transferred from an improvement fund controlled by the State Racing Commission to a bank account held by the Maryland Jockey Club, operator of Pimlico. The money represents deductions from money bet at the track.

Former Atty. Gen. Hall Hammond ruled that the transfer was legal, and acting for the state, along with counsel for the jockey club, filed a demurrer, asking Judge Manley to throw the case out.

In overruling the request, Judge Manley said:

"It is doubtful that it was the intention of the Legislature to allow a licensee to make no repairs or alterations and thus accumulate a large equity in the racing fund over a period of time far in excess of the time limitations stated in the act, and thus have available a sum sufficient to pay the cost—or a very substantial portion thereof — of erecting an entirely new racing plant."

The jockey club has said it is definitely committed to use the money for improvements and has not done so, partly because of federal building restrictions and materials shortages.

Two Men Slash Soap Opera Heavy

LIMA, Peru, Oct. 8 (AP) — Two men made a knife attack on an actor who portrays the villain in a popular radio soap opera as he left the studio last night.

They asked the actor, Carlos Egoaguirre, if he was the man "who made Maria Elena suffer so much." Maria Elena is the name of the heroine. Egoaguirre was slashed about the face and neck.

Gas Company Revises Cost Of Temporary Rate Increase

A spokesman for the Cumberland & Allegheny Gas Company's main office in Pittsburgh yesterday revised cost estimates in connection with a proposed temporary rate increase for Maryland and nearby West Virginia customers.

The official, after checking the Cumberland area, reported this morning that the hike—if approved by Public Service Commissions of both states—would amount to the following:

About $15 more annually for consumers with cooking stoves and hot water heaters.

An extra $45 per year for customers with "space heaters" or small stoves used for heating, in additional to cooking stoves and hot water heaters.

And $55 more a year for those with central fire heating units (furnaces) and other house hold equipment using gas.

Yesterday, the spokesman said the proposed increase would cost area customers from $24 to $65 annually. He added that present base rates, effective since January 1933, are:

First 2,000 cubic feet, $.90 per 1,000 cubic feet; next 2,000 cubic feet, $.75 per 1,000 cubic feet, and all over 4,000 cubic feet, $.55 per 1,000 cubic feet.

The inducement rate, effective since 1937, is first 600 cubic feet, 18.8 cents per 100 cubic feet; next 4,400 cubic feet, 5.5 cents per 100 cubic feet, next 10,000 cubic feet, 45 cents per 100 cubic feet and all over 15,000 cubic feet, 43 cents per 1,000 cubic feet.

Explaining the inducement rate, the spokesman said the company had to sell on a price factor due to the amount of premium fuel available.

The Mayor and Council and Allegany Board of County Commissioners have announced intentions of protesting the proposed rate increase. Yesterday, Keyser citizens reported disapproval of the pending hike.

PTA Council Will Sponsor Talks Here By Noted Author

The Allegany County Council of Parent-Teacher Associations set plans for the appearance here of Salome Risque, noted lecturer and author, at its first meeting of the school year Monday night at the West Side School.

Risque, who is the author of the book, "Assyrian Yankee," will speak at area high schools on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, November 19, 20 and 21, and he will also address adult audiences on those evenings. A complete schedule will be announced at a later date.

Dr. Adam Baer, Frostburg, presided at the meeting. Mrs. Robert Lord, music chairman, led singing and the flag salute was led by John Robb. James Hosack read the objects of the PTA from the P-T Manual. Reports were presented by Mr. and Mrs. George Dunlap, auditing, and Carl D. Belt, budget.

Mrs. Ralph Isiminger announced the annual fellowship dinner would be held Wednesday, October 22, at Frostburg State Teachers College. The event will get underway at 6:30 p. m., she said, adding that approximately 100 will be invited. Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of county schools, will speak and Mrs. Lord will present a music program.

A review of the Audubon screen tours, which are presented annually by the Allegany County Bird Club and the National Audubon Society, was presented by Mrs. Gilbert Miller. Reports on the summer conference were presented by Mrs. Earl Irons, Penn Avenue PTA, and Mrs. Bernard Seib, Johnson Street PTA. National convention reports were made by Mrs. Adam Baer and Mrs. McGill.

Work plans for the school term were presented by the following chairmen:

Earl Lawyer, safety; Miss Mildred Beck, library and publications; Mrs. John Barncord, health and summer round-up; Mrs. Joseph Goldman, program; Mrs. Willard Brakeall, membership; Mrs. William VanNewkirk, mental hygiene, and Mrs. Robert Davis, audio-visual education.

There were 150 members present, with 24 out of 27 schools represented. Nineteen of the organizations had five or more members as representatives.

PIN-WORMS MAY BE A FAMILY AFFAIR

Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms... ugly parasites that medical experts say infest one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, these pests must not only be killed, but killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do ...and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

No German Peace

When the President of the United States and the Prime Minister of Britain met Stalin at Potsdam in the summer of 1945, they thought they were making temporary arrangements for the occupation and control of Germany, to last perhaps a year before a peace treaty was signed with German representatives. The Treaty of Versailles, ending World War I, was signed less than eight months after the shooting stopped.

Prompt conclusion of peace treaties was a universally accepted practice. Apparently it never occurred to the Allied leaders that after seven years no peace treaty would have been signed and no peace conference held.

But Russia has taken advantage of purely military arrangements, such as prevailed after World War I, to communize her zone of Germany. She has persisted in attempts to drive the Allied powers out of Berlin and add the capital city to the Soviet zone. Meanwhile the Reds have talked of German unification, but only on terms that would lead to communization of all Germany. They have made shreds of the Potsdam agreement.

Recently, however, Soviet leaders have been saying they want a peace conference, and eight notes on the subject have been exchanged by Moscow with Washington, London and Paris since last March. The last Allied note indicates that the two sides are as far apart as ever.

Russia wants a big conference, with many subjects on the agenda and representatives of East and West Germany present. Such a conference could hardly be anything but Russian propaganda show designed to influence the voters in West Germany to play into Soviet hands.

The West insists on a four-power meeting to arrange for all-German elections to choose a government to represent all Germany at a peace conference, and holding of such elections. Russian leaders having said that the peace should be signed with an all-German government they cannot logically oppose these terms if they really want a German treaty. But it seems unlikely that they do want one.

What Kind Of Winter?

This is the time of year when amateur weather forecasters, from California to Connecticut, and points between, can be expected to give out with their findings for what they are worth. But, for some inexplicable reason, they have been unusually reticent.

To date there has been no news of the annual woolly bear survey which has been conducted each fall for a decade by a New York paper to discover what kind of winter is ahead. The woolly bears are just plain caterpillars which inhabit a Hudson River Valley retreat now known as Woolly Bear Mountain.

These crawlers are a reddish brown with a black cummerbund. The wider the cummerbund the milder the winter.

However, there's a serious dispatch in the columns of another New York paper. It seems a William Kennedy, who is top meteorologist of the government weather station atop Bear Mountain — also in the Hudson River Valley—says flatly of the coming winter: "Lowest temperatures in years and more snow than usual."

Mr. Kennedy doesn't measure the width of caterpillar cummerbunds; he works with pressure patterns. Apparently a series of highs will come roaring down from Hudson Bay and environs starting in November.

Now, what happens in the Hudson River Valley doesn't necessarily happen everywhere. Still, Mr. Kennedy has probably one of the most illustrious records for prognostication—98 per cent right—of all time.

Bible Revision

It is with good reason that The Bible is the world's "best seller." Known and loved by millions as the Book of Life, it is to them a source of spiritual strength and a guide to living. For this reason, the searching out of the true meaning of its words and phrases, as presented in the original Hebrew and Greek texts, has engaged the best efforts of some of the world's foremost scholars and religious authorities.

Publication of a complete new revision of the American Standard Version, timed to coincide with the 500th anniversary of the Gutenberg Bible, is an event of wide interest therefore. When simultaneously a new translation of a portion of the Old Testament is brought out under Catholic auspices, the event takes on double significance.

There have been numerous translations of the English Bible since the King James Version was produced in 1611, but that text has been widely popular because of the familiarity, the beauty and the nobility of its language.

To preserve in so far as possible the inspiring language of the King James text has been the purpose of the committee that worked on the new revision, as it was of those who prepared the first American revision in 1901. Members of the committee have adhered closely to their objective, to apply the results of scholarly research with care and to make only such changes as necessary to clarify meaning, replacing archaic and obsolete forms with those more readily understood by today's readers.

It was a task reverently performed, and if it should have the effect of adding to the number of Bible readers and students, it will have been well worth the devotion given to it.

Department of Agriculture says farmers do 17 per cent less work and get 45 per cent more output than in 1932. Many government employes do no work, thus achieve no output, but have greater intake than the average farmer who pays taxes to keep them on the payroll.

A New Remedy For Arthritis

During the last few years, the remarkable results of ACTH and cortisone in arthritis have overshadowed all other forms of treatment. These new hormones also changed our concepts of arthritis so that the disease has lost some of its sting. But they have not solved the problem entirely because not everyone is able to tolerate the drugs, not all types of arthritis respond to them, and they have some drawbacks.

Meanwhile, research continues and other products have been introduced. Butazolidin, or phenylbutazone, is one. This compound was discovered when Swiss chemists attempted to find a chemical with properties similar to aminopyrine. The latter, an old time and worthy competitor of aspirin, was discontinued because of its toxic effect. Phenylbutazone passed through the laboratory and research stages, and now is being used on a world-wide scale. Various authorities have reported on its use in patients with gout, rheumatoid arthritis, spondylitis. Osteoarthritis, and mixtures of these arthritic conditions, as well as a group of miscellaneous musculoskeletal disorders. In the majority, some relief of symptoms was noted along with objective improvement, such as reduced swelling of the joints and muscle spasticity.

In one series of 29 patients with rheumatoid arthritis, suppression of symptoms was noted in all. In another group of 16 cases, each patient showed prompt amelioration of pain, usually within five days. Swelling decreased in all cases within 10 days and, although arthritis with marked deformity showed no change in the appearance of the joints, there was loosening of the involved parts. In a report from Glasgow, 77 of 81 victims of arthritis said their symtoms "were relieved."

The chemical also benefited 48 patients with acute and chronic gout. The same author treated 10 patients with osteoarthritis; three showed major improvement, three minor improvement, and four were not helped. But with the good news comes the bad because phenlybutazone produces toxic manifestations, including skin rash, nausea, dizziness, and puffiness of tissues. Petic ulcer was reactivated in four cases. Nausea and abdominal distension are the most common reactions and in some instances are so severe the drug must be stopped. This is minimized by taking the tablets during or immediately after eating.

From a statistical standpoint, approximately 90 per cent are able to tolerate the drug without reactions serious enough to force its discontinance. Since the puffiness of the compound may cause puffiness of the tissues, many authorities discourage its use among the elderly and those with high blood pressure or heart or kidney disease. The good effects of phenylbutazone are not permanent and symptoms tend to return when the preparation is discontinued.

The use of placental serum in rheumatoid arthritis was reported recently from the Morrisania City hospital in New York City. The idea stems from the observation that arthritic women improve tremendously during pregnancy and that some factor in the blood is responsible. At any rate, satisfactory and encouraging results were obtained in 23 rheumatoid arthritis patients who were treated for more than a year with biweekly injections of this substance. We do not know how practical this treatment will prove, but it adds another method of attack in the fight against arthritis.

JAUNDICE IN BABIES

L. P. writes: What is the cause of jaundice in newborn babies?

REPLY

Most babies show some degree of jaundice (icterus neonatorum) between the second and seventh day of life. As soon as the liver and circulation begin to function normally, the discoloration subsides. If it doesn't other causes of jaundice are considered, such as erythroblastosis fetalis, obstruction of the bile ducts, or other defects.

In general the signs are indefinite except in pellagra, scurvy, or rickets. Presumptive manifestations include night blindness or roughened skin (A); red or magenta colored tongue, neuritis, fissures at the angles of the mouth, and dermatitis of the hands and feet (B); bleeding gums (C), and changes in the bony structure of head, chest, and extremities (D).

Far West Smiles On Truman Politically And Economically, But Undercurrent Of Republicanism Is There—The People Want A Change

ABOARD PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S TRAIN—Harry Truman has been gliding past country that he knows well, and it has been smiling at him.

Outside his train window the alfalfa fields of Utah lay green and prosperous as he passed pick-up balers, which many farmers could not afford a few years ago, leaving a trail of green bales behind them. In California stack upon stack of wheat straw dotted the fields. At Provo, a new steel mill, built by the government when private industry refused to take the risk, has brought new prosperity.

Water seems more plentiful this year, and in some areas it has been brought down from the mountains by dams and reclamation projects pioneered by the Truman or Roosevelt administrations.

Yes, the Far West smiles on Harry Truman both politically and economically. It smiles but it isn't boisterous. It doesn't give him the noisy demonstrations that the crowds give Eisenhower, and the President in turn doesn't usually give them the fire-and-brimstone, skin-'em-alive oratory that Ike delivers from the rear platform. Sometimes he does, but he doesn't follow a general pattern.

However, though the crowds are big and the faces friendly you detect an undercurrent of Republicanism in these normally Democratic states.

It's hard to put your finger on, but it's there. It's there partly because the sun is smiling economically. There isn't the economic pinch that there has been sometimes. There isn't any workers' and farmers' fear of security. And in that respect, Harry Truman's reclamation, the new steel mill, the price supports perhaps may help defeat his own political ends. But perhaps more important is the desire of a change. People aren't particularly swayed by oratorical bombast on either side, and many are not at all enthusiastic about Eisenhower. And they don't know much about Stevenson, except that he's a little highbrow. But above all they want a change.

Will McCarran Bolt Ticket?

In Nevada, hoary-haired Sen. Pat McCarran is stuck politically between the devil and the deep blue sea. A young war veteran named Tom Mechling, succeeded in trouncing McCarran's former law partner, Allan Bible, in the Democratic primaries, so the natural thing for McCarran to do would be to cut the Democratic ticket, which he hasn't hesitated to do in the past.

But if he cuts Democrat Mechling, then he elects GOP Sen. "Molly" Malone, for whom he has no respect whatsoever. Time after time, the brusque McCarran has snubbed or publicly browbeaten his GOP colleague from Nevada.

Once, when Malone was making a Senate speech condemning the reciprocal trade treaty, McCarran, listening impatiently, finally whispered to Sen. Walter George of Georgia that he would "put a stop to this."

Deliberately stalking across the front of the Senate chamber, McCarran planted himself in front of the other senator from Nevada and fixed him with a glassy stare.

Today McCarran, a Democrat, is likely to cut the Democratic ticket and secretly support Malone whom he doesn't respect but whom he can control.

Nixon Undercut Warren

Republican leaders are not happy over the fact that California's popular Gov. Earl Warren welcomed President Truman when the President's train entered the state, and that he also is inviting both Stevenson and Eisenhower to speak from the steps of the state capitol.

However, Governor Warren is not only always elected by a large segment of Democratic votes, but he has no particular reason to love Nixon and Eisenhower.

It was Senator Nixon, a member of the California delegation, who bored from within at the Chicago convention in order to swing Warren's own delegation over to Eisenhower. Knowland, the senior California senator, was taken on the mountain-top by Senator Taft and offered the full weight of the Taft delegates for President if Taft failed to make it on the first ballot. In return Knowland had to deliver the California delegation on the first ballot.

Seldom has a young man been so severely tempted. But Senator Knowland remained loyal to his friend, Governor Warren.

Nixon, however, didn't. He cut Warren, got the vice presidency.

Off-Record Remark Hurt

Another reason why the governor of California isn't overly happy about the GOP ticket is some remarks which Eisenhower made about him when visiting in San Francisco two years ago.

Governor Warren had the courage to take a firm stand against the witch-hunters on the board of regents of the University of California when they demanded a faculty oath that would delve back into the entire life of every professor. Though his stand was unpopular, Warren bucked his board of regents and backed the faculty.

This inspired General Eisenhower to make some off-the-record remarks at the San Francisco Press Club that he didn't know of any loyalty oath he wouldn't be willing to stand up and swear to.

Naturally the remark got back to Warren.

"It is interesting," commented the governor to a friend, "that the general made his remark off the record so it would not be quoted in the East. For he and President Conant of Harvard were the first to take a public stand against loyalty oaths.

"Furthermore," continued Warren, "it happens that the university which Ike heads has more Communists and Reds than any other in the country."

Governor Warren is going out on a train to campaign for the ticket. But his friends say it's obvious his heart isn't in it.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Truman's Error

President Truman has been accusing General Eisenhower of grievous errors, some of them, if properly analyzed, amounting to treasonable conduct. The worst accusation is that General Eisenhower laid out the American Zone in Berlin without an entrance or an exit except through Russian-controlled territory. Because of this error, the United States was forced to employ the Berlin airlift, probably the most expensive transport service ever devised. Also Americans got killed.

General Lucius Clay immediately rushed to General Eisenhower's defense, accepting full responsibility for an arrangement which he, Clay, insists was not a blunder. Few will agree with General Clay that his arrangements for the American Zone would not have flunked a cadet at West Point. How did he expect Americans to get in or out of Berlin — by osmosis?

But in this matter, the full responsibility is neither Eisenhower's nor Clay's. It is Harry Truman's. He is commander-in-chief . . . a title over which he has made a great fuss. He did not scruple to dismiss General Douglas MacArthur for trying to fight and win a war by means other than those designed by Harry Truman, commander-in-chief. The responsibility for so vital a decision must rest politically with the President, militarily with the commander-in-chief. The Constitution fixed it that way.

If Eisenhower or Clay or both erred so seriously with regard to the American Zone in Berlin, Truman knew all about it at the time. Why did he not dismiss Eisenhower or Clay or both? Why did he wait from 1945 to October 1952 to tell the American people about it? Why did he continue to appoint Eisenhower and Clay to further offices? Look at this list:

Eisenhower: designated America's head representative in the military government to run Germany, March 1945 and continued by Truman; chief-of-staff, November 1945; temporary chairman, Joint Chiefs of Staff, February 1949; supreme Allied commander in Europe and head of NATO, December 1950.

Clay: U. S. deputy military governor of Germany, 1945, later military governor; commander U. S. forces in European theater, January 1947; on U S. delegation to London Big Four Conference, November 1947; President endorsed a National Committee for a Free Europe under leadership of General Clay, 1950; appointed mobilization office aide under Charles Wilson, December 1950.

In addition, note must be taken of the fact that Harry Truman did favor Eisenhower for the Presidency and that he would have favored him for the Democratic nomination. He said on August 9, 1951, that his promise, in 1945, to General Eisenhower that he would give Eisenhower any job he wanted, including the Presidency, applied in 1952. He did not think that Eisenhower wanted the Democratic nomination and as for the Republicans, Harry's candidate was Bob Taft. However, he was all for Ike.

If General Eisenhower was ever as stupid as Harry Truman now says he is, why did he appoint him to such high offices and favor him for the Presidency? Furthermore, on October 25, 1951, when The New York Herald Tribune named Eisenhower as its candidate for the Presidency, Harry Truman said the newspaper had picked a fine candidate.

Surely, Truman cannot have it both ways; he cannot favor Eisenhower and oppose him; he cannot support him for the highest offices in the land and then ridicule him. Either Eisenhower was fit when appointed and promoted and honored, or Truman is guilty of risking the welfare of the United States by appointing the wrong man years after he discovered that the man had made a grievous error.

The trouble with Harry Truman is his own conception of his perfection. Once a quiet, humble man, he has grown so puffed up with assurance that he fails to recognize that all men are fallible and that he is only a man. He blames Eisenhower for acts for which he, Truman, is constitutionally responsible. As President, he has always had the power to reject the advice and even the acts of his subordinates. This position he rigidly held with regard to MacArthur; yet, his position with regard to Eisenhower is that he, Truman, had no responsibilities for his subordinate's conduct. There is no logic in the Truman attack on Eisenhower. What he ought to do is to confess his own errors, his own incapacity.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 — The presidential campaign has crystallized to the point where it now is evident that a vote for Stevenson is a vote to approve and uphold the Truman administration.

The active campaign undertaken by President Truman, in which he seeks from the people approval of the policies of the last four years, has given the voters of the country a simple choice. Up to now the impression conveyed by Governor Stevenson himself was that he disapproved of certain policies or methods of the Truman administration and that he was promising the people a "change." Now Governor Stevenson's tactics have been reversed. He has embraced the Truman regime and is welcoming the aggressive support given him on the stump by Mr. Truman.

The Illinois governor is disappointing many of the independent voters who have condemned corruption in government and who dislike the laxity of the Truman "methods." The independents had hopes that Mr. Stevenson would not surrender to President Truman and the Democratic "Old Guard" but would blaze an independent trail. The exigencies of practical politics, however, dictated a different course, and Mr. Stevenson, supported by the advice of the experienced politicians is now accepting wholeheartedly the Truman support. Some advisers think he will make up among the Democratic rank and file the votes he loses among independents.

Millstones And Handicaps

Just as Senator McCarthy was presumably a millstone around the neck of General Eisenhower, so President Truman has supposedly become a real handicap to Governor Stevenson. Just as the Republican nominee, however, felt it was wise to endorse Senator McCarthy's candidacy, so Governor Stevenson feels it is wise to accept the support of Mr. Truman, even though it is quite apparent that a high-minded individual like the Illinois governor can hardly condone the reckless and irresponsible charges implying disloyalty which President Truman is directing toward General Eisenhower. The "character assassination" job being done by Mr. Truman against General Eisenhower is bound to arouse the independents.

All hope that Governor Stevenson would repudiate the false carges being made by Mr. Truman against the General has about vanished, and it must be recorded that, early in October of 1952, in a desperate effort to win votes, the Illinois governor abandoned his high professions of independence of last summer and followed the traditional rules of campaigning.

Overlook Corruption

So far as the nation is concerned, if it wants to approve Trumanism, then a vote for Governor Stevenson is logical. The exposures of corruption are overlooked anyway by the partisans of the New Deal and Fair Deal, who really feel that responsible administration is secondary and that materialistic rewards in the pay envelope are attributable solely to the Democratic administration and hence are more important than any other consideration.

It is nevertheless the right of those citizens who feel the Truman regime should be applauded and upheld to cast their ballots for Stevenson in order to record their approval.

Conversely, the people who want to vote against Trumanism will find it logical to vote for General Eisenhower and will not be diverted from that purpose by the Democratic outcry that the General will be a "captive" of the "Old Guard" or that his party cannot possibly harmonize the differences of opinion between the Republican presidential nominee and the Senators, for instance, who would become chairmen of important committees in the event of a Republican majority in the Senate.

What the line of argument about Congress overlooks is the fact that President Truman never has had control of either House or Congress and that the committee chairmen who are Democrats will be as much opposed to Stevenson's policies as they are to Truman's. The Southern Senators will defeat any attempt to put over the Truman Civil-Rights program which Stevenson has embraced. On foreign policy, the Republicans plus their Democratic brethren will continue international cooperation though there may be a pruning of unwise expenditures in both the domestic and foreign categories.

The United States has been saved from an era of radicalism and the destruction of the private-enterprise system by a Republican-Democratic coalition in Congress which has fought successfully against the confiscationist proposals of the President. In recent weeks he has reiterated his espousal of the cause of government ownership. If the idea is to let the government own all the drugstores, all the grocery stores and all the department stores and all the small as well as large businesses, union labor will find that wages will have to be held down or else the government will have to supply capital out of tax levies.

What the campaign is clearly pointing out is that, if Stevenson is elected, the public ownership or state-capitalism school of thought will receive its greatest impetus, whereas if the Truman-Stevenson combination is defeated, the present era of liberal-conservatism — which is the fundamental philosophy of a majority in both houses of Congress — will continue. It's the Stevenson-Truman ticket that really proposes a basic change so far as Congress is concerned Hence, if there is a Republican majority in Congress, it will be due to victories in the Northern States over those Democratic nominees who propose to follow the Truman line of governmental ownership.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH ALSOP

Don't Sell Harry Short

SAN FRANCISCO

Judging by reports, the Republican leadership is at least pretending to feel the same contempt for Harry S. Truman's campaigning that was so mistakenly felt four years ago. Judging by on-the-scene observation, however, the Republicans would be wise to take the advice of one of the California Democrats.

"Don't sell Harry short," was the way this Democratic politico summed up his reaction to the President's remarkable foreign policy speech here in Oakland. Ironically enough, Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson, who once had a distinct tendency to sell Harry short, is now very long on Harry too.

Everyone must recall what a pallid view Stevenson and his advisors formerly took of the President's whistle-stopping. This earlier Stvenson view is even now reflected in the physical circumstances of the country. Truman is travelling with an allocation of national Democratic funds barely sufficient to pay for his train. No appropriation has been provided for national radio or television time for Truman. Local broadcasts, such as that from Oakland, are being locally financed.

Moreover, the President himself, in his oddly humble way, was worried about Gov. Stevenson's reaction to his efforts until he reached this city. Then, before leaving San Francisco, he had a call put through to Springfield. Stevenson was profuse in his expressions of admiration and gratitude to the President. He begged the President to go right on whistle-stopping, and right on pouring it on the Republicans, until election day. He indicated that efforts would now be made to find additional cash, in order to put the President on the national air.

Regarded As An Asset

In short, Truman, who was once to be kept in the background, is now to be given a great role in this puzzling campaign. Maybe the change of Democratic strategy is a piece of folly. But in the Oakland speech here, as at the small towns along Truman's route through the Northwest, you could see why Stevenson and his aides now regard Truman as a major asset.

In the first place, the President has been changed by the change in his own situation. As a leader about to lay down his burden, he is easier, more relaxed, and much more eloquent. He does not mangle his words. He no longer seems merely pugnacious. He is humorous and homely. His timing is good. He can even be truly moving, as in the passage in the Oakland speech acknowledging the sacrifice of our dead in Korea, and defending that sacrifice as a glorious contribution to freedom's cause.

This change in Truman is extra-effective because his decision to retire has also rather obviously altered his standing with the voters. A large group, no doubt, still feels bitter resentment against the President. But many others who were once hostile are now influenced by the thought that Truman no longer has a personal axe to grind. They are not worrying any more about the cronies, who are soon to disappear. Resentment has subsided among these people. It has been replaced by admiration for the President's brisk courage in the fight.

These are the reasons why the Truman tour, to date, seems to have been gaining votes for the Democrats. Maybe, as these words are written in San Francisco, the President will be putting his foot in his mouth somewhere down the line from here. He seems more likely, however, to be putting the bee on Gen. Eisenhower.

Truman Strained Point

In truth, Gen. Eisenhower and his supporters are not wise to dismiss Truman's whole attack as "mere mud-slinging." The general, in these last three weeks, has chosen to do a pretty risky thing. He has chosen to denounce the American foreign and defense policy that he himself helped to make. And the President has collected a whole baleful of documents to show Eisenhower's complicity in the very decisions the general is now deploring.

Some of these documents Truman will no doubt strain and misuse. This reporter thinks, for instance, that Truman strained his point when he sought to blame Eisenhower for the mistakes at Berlin which ended in the blockade there.

Yet no one can deny that the general, as Army chief of staff, actually initiated the proposal that we

No German Peace

When the President of the United States and the Prime Minister of Britain met Stalin at Potsdam in the summer of 1945, they thought they were making temporary arrangements for the occupation and control of Germany, to last perhaps a year before a peace treaty was signed with German representatives. The Treaty of Versailles, ending World War I, was signed less than eight months after the shooting stopped.

Prompt conclusion of peace treaties was a universally accepted practice. Apparently it never occurred to the Allied leaders that after seven years no peace treaty would have been signed and no peace conference held.

But Russia has taken advantage of purely military arrangements, such as prevailed after World War I, to communize her zone of Germany. She has persisted in attempts to drive the Allied powers out of Berlin and add the capital city to the Soviet zone. Meanwhile the Reds have talked of German unification, but only on terms that would lead to communization of all Germany. They have made shreds of the Potsdam agreement.

Recently, however, Soviet leaders have been saying they want a peace conference, and eight notes on the subject have been exchanged by Moscow with Washington, London and Paris since last March. The last Allied note indicates that the two sides are as far apart as ever.

Russia wants a big conference, with many subjects on the agenda and representatives of East and West Germany present. Such a conference could hardly be anything but Russian propaganda show designed to influence the voters in West Germany to play into Soviet hands.

The West insists on a four-power meeting to arrange for all-German elections to choose a government to represent all Germany at a peace conference, and holding of such elections. Russian leaders having said that the peace should be signed with an all-German government they cannot logically oppose these terms if they really want a German treaty. But it seems unlikely that they do want one.

What Kind Of Winter?

This is the time of year when amateur weather forecasters, from California to Connecticut, and points between, can be expected to give out with their findings for what they are worth. But, for some inexplicable reason, they have been unusually reticent.

To date there has been no news of the annual woolly bear survey which has been conducted each fall for a decade by a New York paper to discover what kind of winter is ahead. The woolly bears are just plain caterpillars which inhabit a Hudson River Valley retreat now known as Woolly Bear Mountain.

These crawlers are a reddish brown with a black cummerbund. The wider the cummerbund the milder the winter.

However, there's a serious dispatch in the columns of another New York paper. It seems a William Kennedy, who is top meteorologist of the government weather station atop Bear Mountain—also in the Hudson River Valley—says flatly of the coming winter: "Lowest temperatures in years and more snow than usual."

Mr. Kennedy doesn't measure the width of caterpillar cummerbunds; he works with pressure patterns. Apparently a series of highs will come roaring down from Hudson Bay and environs starting in November.

Now, what happens in the Hudson River Valley doesn't necessarily happen everywhere. Still, Mr. Kennedy has probably one of the most illustrious records for prognostication—98 per cent right—of all time.

Far West Smiles On Truman Politically And Economically, But Undercurrent Of Republicanism Is There—The People Want A Change

ABOARD PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S TRAIN—Harry Truman has been gliding past country that he knows well, and it has been smiling at him.

Outside his train window the alfalfa fields of Utah lay green and prosperous as he passed pick-up balers, which many farmers could not afford a few years ago, leaving a trail of green bales behind them. In California stack upon stack of wheat straw dotted the fields. At Provo, a new steel mill, built by the government when private industry refused to take the risk, has brought new prosperity.

Water seems more plentiful this year, and in some areas it has been brought down from the mountains by dams and reclamation projects pioneered by the Truman or Roosevelt administrations.

Yes, the Far West smiles on Harry Truman both politically and economically. It smiles but it isn't boisterous. It doesn't give him the noisy demonstrations that the crowds give Eisenhower, and the President in turn doesn't usually give them the fire-and-brimstone, skin-'em-alive oratory that Ike delivers from the rear platform. Sometimes he does, but he doesn't follow a general pattern.

However, though the crowds are big and the faces friendly you detect an undercurrent of Republicanism in these normally Democratic states.

It's hard to put your finger on, but it's there. It's there partly because the sun is smiling economically. There isn't the economic pinch that there has been sometimes. There isn't any workers' and farmers' fear of security. And in that respect, Harry Truman's reclamation, the new steel mill, the price supports perhaps may help defeat his own political ends. But perhaps more important is the desire of a change. People aren't particularly swayed by oratorical bombast on either side, and many are not at all enthusiastic about Eisenhower. And they don't know much about Stevenson, except that he's a little highbrow. But above all they want a change.

Will McCarran Bolt Ticket?

In Nevada, hoary-haired Sen. Pat McCarran is stuck politically between the devil and the deep blue sea. A young war veteran named Tom Mechling, succeeded in trouncing McCarran's former law partner, Allan Bible, in the Democratic primaries, so the natural thing for McCarran to do would be to cut the Democratic ticket, which he hasn't hesitated to do in the past.

But if he cuts Democrat Mechling, then he elects GOP Sen. "Molly" Malone, for whom he has no respect whatsoever. Time after time, the brusque McCarran has snubbed or publicly browbeaten his GOP colleague from Nevada.

Once, when Malone was making a Senate speech condemning the reciprocal trade treaty, McCarran, listening impatiently, finally whispered to Sen. Walter George of Georgia that he would "put a stop to this."

Deliberately stalking across the front of the Senate chamber, McCarran planted himself in front of the other senator from Nevada and fixed him with a glassy stare.

Today McCarran, a Democrat, is likely to cut the Democratic ticket and secretly support Malone whom he doesn't respect but whom he can control.

Nixon Undercut Warren

Republican leaders are not happy over the fact that California's popular Gov. Earl Warren welcomed President Truman when the President's train entered the state, and that he also is inviting both Stevenson and Eisenhower to speak from the steps of the state capitol.

However, Governor Warren is not only always elected by a large segment of Democratic votes, but he has no particular reason to love Nixon and Eisenhower.

It was Senator Nixon, a member of the California delegation, who bored from within at the Chicago convention in order to swing Warren's own delegation over to Eisenhower. Knowland, the senior California senator, was taken on the mountain-top by Senator Taft and offered the full weight of the Taft delegates for President if Taft failed to make it on the first ballot. In return Knowland had to deliver the California delegation on the first ballot.

Seldom has a young man been so severely tempted. But Senator Knowland remained loyal to his friend, Governor Warren.

Nixon, however, didn't. He cut Warren, got the vice presidency.

Off-Record Remark Hurt

Another reason why the governor of California isn't overly happy about the GOP ticket is some remarks which Eisenhower made about him when visiting in San Francisco two years ago.

Governor Warren had the courage to take a firm stand against the witch-hunters on the board of regents of the University of California when they demanded a faculty oath that would delve back into the entire life of every professor. Though his stand was unpopular, Warren bucked his board of regents and backed the faculty.

This inspired General Eisenhower to make some off-the-record remarks at the San Francisco Press Club that he didn't know of any loyalty oath he wouldn't be willing to stand up and swear to.

Naturally the remark got back to Warren.

"It is interesting," commented the governor to a friend, "that the general made his remark off the record so it would not be quoted in the East. For he and President Conant of Harvard were the first to take a public stand against loyalty oaths.

"Furthermore," continued Warren, "it happens that the university which Ike heads has more Communists and Reds than any other in the country."

Governor Warren is going out on a train to campaign for the ticket. But his friends say it's obvious his heart isn't in it.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Truman's Error

President Truman has been accusing General Eisenhower of grievous errors, some of them, if properly analyzed, amounting to treasonable conduct. The worst accusation is that General Eisenhower laid out the American Zone in Berlin without an entrance or an exit except through Russian-controlled territory. Because of this error, the United States was forced to employ the Berlin airlift, probably the most expensive transport service ever devised. Also Americans got killed.

General Lucius Clay immediately rushed to General Eisenhower's defense, accepting full responsibility for an arrangement which he, Clay, insists was not a blunder. Few will agree with General Clay that his arrangements for the American Zone would not have flunked a cadet at West Point. How did he expect Americans to get in or out of Berlin — by osmosis?

But in this matter, the full responsibility is neither Eisenhower's nor Clay's. It is Harry Truman's. He is commander-in-chief... a title over which he has made a great fuss. He did not scruple to dismiss General Douglas MacArthur for trying to fight and win a war by means other than those designed by Harry Truman, commander-in-chief. The responsibility for so vital a decision must rest politically with the President, militarily with the commander-in-chief. The Constitution fixed it that way.

If Eisenhower or Clay or both erred so seriously with regard to the American Zone in Berlin, Truman knew all about it at the time. Why did he not dismiss Eisenhower or Clay or both? Why did he wait from 1945 to October 1952 to tell the American people about it? Why did he continue to appoint Eisenhower and Clay to further offices? Look at this list:

Eisenhower: designated America's head representative in the military government to run Germany, March 1945 and continued by Truman; chief-of-staff, November 1945; temporary chairman, Joint Chiefs of Staff, February 1949; supreme Allied commander in Europe and head of NATO, December 1950.

Clay: U. S. deputy military governor of Germany, 1945, later military governor; commander U. S. forces in European theater, January 1947; on U S. delegation to London Big Four Conference, November 1947; President endorsed a National Committee for a Free Europe under leadership of General Clay, 1950; appointed mobilization office aide under Charles Wilson, December 1950.

In addition, note must be taken of the fact that Harry Truman did favor Eisenhower for the Presidency and that he would have favored him for the Democratic nomination. He said on August 9, 1951, that his promise, in 1945, to General Eisenhower that he would give Eisenhower any job he wanted, including the Presidency, applied in 1952. He did not think that Eisenhower wanted the Democratic nomination and as for the Republicans, Harry's candidate was Bob Taft. However, he was all for Ike.

If General Eisenhower was ever as stupid as Harry Truman now says he is, why did he appoint him to such high offices and favor him for the Presidency? Furthermore, on October 25, 1951, when The New York Herald Tribune named Eisenhower as its candidate for the Presidency, Harry Truman said the newspaper had picked a fine candidate.

Surely, Truman cannot have it both ways; he cannot favor Eisenhower and oppose him; he cannot support him for the highest offices in the land and then ridicule him. Either Eisenhower was fit when appointed and promoted and honored, or Truman is guilty of risking the welfare of the United States by appointing the wrong man years after he discovered that the man had made a grievous error.

The trouble with Harry Truman is his own conception of his perfection. Once a quiet, humble man, he has grown so puffed up with assurance that he fails to recognize that all men are fallible and that he is only a man. He blames Eisenhower for acts for which he, Truman, is constitutionally responsible. As President, he has always had the power to reject the advice and even the acts of his subordinates. This position he rigidly held with regard to MacArthur; yet, his position with regard to Eisenhower is that he, Truman, had no responsibilities for his subordinate's conduct. There is no logic in the Truman attack on Eisenhower. What he ought to do is to confess his own errors, his own incapacity.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 — The presidential campaign has crystallized to the point where it now is evident that a vote for Stevenson is a vote to approve and uphold the Truman administration.

The active campaign undertaken by President Truman, in which he seeks from the people approval of the policies of the last four years, has given the voters of the country a simple choice. Up to now the impression conveyed by Governor Stevenson himself was that he disapproved of certain policies or methods of the Truman administration and that he was promising the people a "change." Now Governor Stevenson's tactics have been reversed. He has embraced the Truman regime and is welcoming the aggressive support given him on the stump by Mr. Truman.

The Illinois governor is disappointing many of the independent voters who have condemned corruption in government and who dislike the laxity of the Truman "methods." The independents had hopes that Mr. Stevenson would not surrender to President Truman and the Democratic "Old Guard" but would blaze an independent trail. The exigencies of practical politics, however, dictated a different course, and Mr. Stevenson, supported by the advice of the experienced politicians is now accepting wholeheartedly the Truman support. Some advisers think he will make up among the Democratic rank and file the votes he loses among independents.

Millstones And Handicaps

Just as Senator McCarthy was presumably a millstone around the neck of General Eisenhower, so President Truman has supposedly become a real handicap to Governor Stevenson. Just as the Republican nominee, however, felt it was wise to endorse Senator McCarthy's candidacy, so Governor Stevenson feels it is wise to accept the support of Mr. Truman, even though it is quite apparent that a high-minded individual like the Illinois governor can hardly condone the reckless and irresponsible charges implying disloyalty which President Truman is directing toward General Eisenhower. The "character assassination" job being done by Mr. Truman against General Eisenhower is bound to arouse the independents.

All hope that Governor Stevenson would repudiate the false carges being made by Mr. Truman against the General has about vanished, and it must be recorded that, early in October of 1952, in a desperate effort to win votes, the Illinois governor abandoned his high professions of independence of last summer and followed the traditional rules of campaigning.

Overlook Corruption

So far as the nation is concerned, if it wants to approve Trumanism, then a vote for Governor Stevenson is logical. The exposures of corruption are overlooked anyway by the partisans of the New Deal and Fair Deal, who really feel that responsible administration is secondary and that materialistic rewards in the pay envelope are attributable solely to the Democratic administration and hence are more important than any other consideration.

It is nevertheless the right of those citizens who feel the Truman regime should be applauded and upheld to cast their ballots for Stevenson in order to record their approval.

Conversely, the people who want to vote against Trumanism will find it logical to vote for General Eisenhower and will not be diverted from that purpose by the Democratic outcry that the General will be a "captive" of the "Old Guard" or that his party cannot possibly harmonize the differences of opinion between the Republican presidential nominee and the Senators, for instance, who would become chairmen of important committees in the event of a Republican majority in the Senate.

What the line of argument about Congress overlooks is the fact that President Truman never has had control of either House or Congress and that the committee chairmen who are Democrats will be as much opposed to Stevenson's policies as they are to Truman's. The Southern Senators will defeat any attempt to put over the Truman Civil-Rights program which Stevenson has embraced. On foreign policy, the Republicans plus their Democratic brethren will continue international cooperation though there may be a pruning of unwise expenditures in both the domestic and foreign categories.

The United States has been saved from an era of radicalism and the destruction of the private-enterprise system by a Republican-Democratic coalition in Congress which has fought successfully against the confiscationist proposals of the President. In recent weeks he has reiterated his espousal of the cause of government ownership. If the idea is to let the government own all the drugstores, all the grocery stores and all the department stores and all the small as well as large businesses, union labor will find that wages will have to be held down or else the government will have to supply capital out of tax levies.

What the campaign is clearly pointing out is that, if Stevenson is elected, the public ownership or state-capitalism school of thought will receive its greatest impetus, whereas if the Truman-Stevenson combination is defeated, the present era of liberal-conservatism — which is the fundamental philosophy of a majority in both houses of Congress — will continue. It's the Stevenson-Truman ticket that really proposes a basic change so far as Congress is concerned Hence, if there is a Republican majority in Congress, it will be due to victories in the Northern States over those Democratic nominees who propose to follow the Truman line of governmental ownership.

Matter Of Fact

Don't Sell Harry Short

SAN FRANCISCO

Judging by reports, the Republican leadership is at least pretending to feel the same contempt for Harry S. Truman's campaigning that was so mistakenly felt four years ago. Judging by on-the-scene observation, however, the Republicans would be wise to take the advice of one of the California Democrats.

"Don't sell Harry short," was the way this Democratic politico summed up his reaction to the President's remarkable foreign policy speech here in Oakland. Ironically enough, Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson, who once had a distinct tendency to sell Harry short, is now very long on Harry too.

Everyone must recall what a pallid view Stevenson and his advisors formerly took of the President's whistle-stopping. This earlier Stvenson view is even now reflected in the physical circumstances of the President's stumping trip across the country. Truman is travelling with an allocation of national Democratic funds barely sufficient to pay for his train. No appropriation has been provided for national radio or television time for Truman. Local broadcasts, such as that from Oakland, are being locally financed.

Moreover, the President himself, in his oddly humble way, was worried about Gov. Stevenson's reaction to his efforts until he reached this city. Then, before leaving San Francisco, he had a call put through to Springfield. Stevenson was profuse in his expressions of admiration and gratitude to the President. He begged the President to go right on whistle-stopping, and right on pouring it on the Republicans, until election day. He indicated that efforts would now be made to find additional cash, in order to put the President on the national air.

Regarded As An Asset

In short, Truman, who was once to be kept in the background, is now to be given a great role in this puzzling campaign. Maybe the change of Democratic strategy is a piece of folly. But in the Oakland speech here, as at the small towns along Truman's route through the Northwest, you could see why Stevenson and his aides now regard Truman as a major asset.

In the first place, the President has been changed by the change in his own situation. As a leader about to lay down his burden, he is easier, more relaxed, and much more eloquent. He does not mangle his words. He no longer seems merely pugnacious. He is humorous and homely. His timing is good. He can even be truly moving, as in the passage in the Oakland speech acknowledging the sacrifice of our dead in Korea, and defending that sacrifice as a glorious contribution to freedom's cause.

This change in Truman is extra-effective because his decision to retire has also rather obviously altered his standing with the voters. A large group, no doubt, still feels bitter resentment against the President. But many others who were once hostile are now influenced by the thought that Truman no longer has a personal axe to grind. They are not worrying any more about the cronies, who are soon to disappear. Resentment has subsided among these people. It has been replaced by admiration for the President's brisk courage in the fight.

These are the reasons why the Truman tour, to date, seems to have been gaining votes for the Democrats. Maybe, as these words are written in San Francisco, the President will be putting his foot in his mouth somewhere down the line from here. He seems more likely, however, to be putting the bee on Gen. Eisenhower.

Truman Strained Point

In truth, Gen. Eisenhower and his supporters are not wise to dismiss Truman's whole attack as "mere mud-slinging." The general, in these last three weeks, has chosen to do a pretty risky thing. He has chosen to denounce the American foreign and defense policy that he himself helped to make. And the President has collected a whole baleful of documents to show Eisenhower's complicity in the very decisions the general is now deploring.

Some of these documents Truman will no doubt strain and misuse. This reporter thinks, for instance, that Truman strained his point when he sought to blame Eisenhower for the mistakes at Berlin which ended in the blockade there.

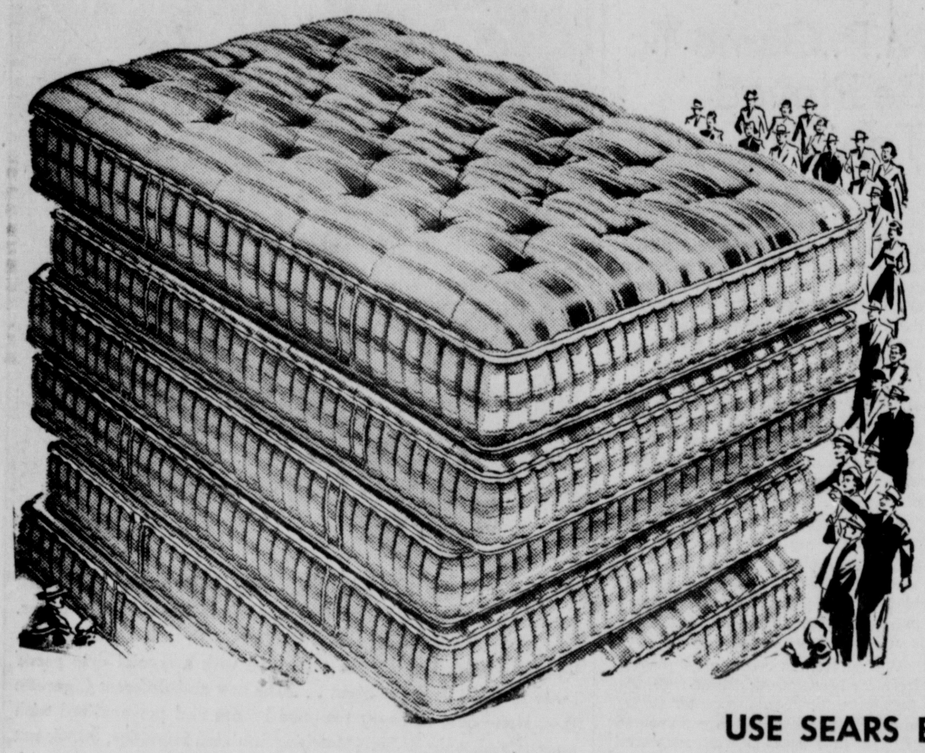

Yet no one can deny that the general, as Army chief of staff, actually initiated the proposal that we

Piney Plains PTA Changes Meetings

The Piney Plains Parent-Teacher Association changed its meeting night and paid $20 for books for the school library at the meeting earlier in the week. Meetings will be held the second Monday of each month.

Harold Scott was appointed second vice president of the PTA by A. R. Shaffer, president. Plans were formulated for a turkey supper for members of the PTA. It is to be held November 10 preceding the meeting at 8 o'clock.

Mr. Shaffer commented in favor of the new insurance for students and teachers.

A program in observance of Christopher Columbus and Halloween was given. It included a reading on Columbus by Mrs. Irene Scott; and a poem, "Columbus Columbus," by Mrs. Ruth Creek. Mrs. Franklin Norris gave a short reading on "Why Witches Ride," marking Halloween.

Concluding the evening games were played and refreshments served, and the group sang, "May the Good Lord Bless and Keep You." Twenty-two members attended.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Madore, Pittsburgh, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Madore, 46 North Centre Street.

Dancing is to conclude the evening with music by Marty Flynn's Orchestra, beginning at 9:30 o'clock.

M.P. Game To Be Played Tonight

A Full Master Point game is to be played by the Western Maryland Bridge Association tonight at the Cumberland Country Club. Albert D. Heacox said last night a record attendance is promised in preparation for the Mason-Dixon tournament, opening at 2 p. m., Saturday.

Besides a Full Master Point for all sections and all positions, at tonight's game, the second session of the October series will be played.

Mr. Heacox invited all bridge players as well as kibitzers to attend the tournament Saturday, and watch "some of the finest bridge players in America."

A feature of the tournament will be the playing of Mellor Phillips, Pittsburgh, who is blind and only recently began playing tournament bridge. His partner, for the open pairs, Sunday, will be Dr. Agarawal, a scientist from India.

Washington is sending 14 players from its association; Pittsburgh, 25; Baltimore 10; Uniontown 20 to 25; and all together 500 are expected for the four sessions, Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Cook To Address Joint Meeting Tonight

Resuchlein will discuss, "Status of Women," and "Supply Work," respectively. Mrs. W. H. Shockley will give the closing prayer and benediction.

Don't let broken veins mar your complexion and poise! Learn this technique to camouflage them!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Among the most distressed queries that find their way into my mail are those from charmers whose otherwise lovely complexions are marred by broken veins.

Although we know of no cure at this time, the skillful use of cosmetics will alleviate both the veined effect and the unnatural flush that they cause, toning them down to the vanishing point. It is important to practice the technique of application until you perfect it so note each step carefully:

Clever Cover-up

After cleansing your face, apply an opaque type of powder base in a shade that matches your normal skin coloring. Be sparing in the amount you use and smooth it on so evenly that no line of demarcation can be seen at the chin, ears and hairline. If one application is insufficient, apply a second after the first has had time to set. But never try to get coverage with one heavy layer of base or the result is sure to look false.

Any veins that refuse to be screened out after this careful application will yield to the artful use of a lipstick brush and some rouge. Using a very light tint of either cream or fluid rouge, fill in the spaces between the veins. Use great care to avoid touching the veins themselves with rouge as that would defeat your purpose.

Allow this application to set for at least ten minutes. Then spread a layer of tissue over the entire face like a mask and with light pressure, firm it against the whole surface. Now peel it off from the top downward.

Next, lavishly press on powder and let it set before removing any excess with light downward strokes of a clean cotton ball. Lastly, take a good look in the mirror. The effect will put to flight any vestige of self-consciousness you may have had over your difficulty.

Prevention Important

To prevent any spread of the problem, avoid the use of both hot water and ice on your face. Seek the advice of a doctor before employing facials or massage. Always handle your skin with a feather touch.

Most complexion handicaps can either be minimized or eliminated by intelligent treatment. If you are plagued by one, send it to this column's Question Box in care of this newspaper and watch for a speedy answer in this space.

YOUR STEPS TO A SUCCESSFUL CAREER

A worthwhile investment in charm for every girl starting a business career—every girl or woman now in business who is eager to reach top-flight success. It tells you how to make that important "good impression" to get your job . . . reveals secrets on how to hold your job. See how easy it is to choose a suitable wardrobe. Save time—uncertainty — needless worry through these short cut steps in charm that lead to YOUR SUCCESS. Write to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper and enclose 10c in coin, plus stamped, self-addressed return envelope, for a copy of the booklet, YOUR STEPS TO A SUCCESSFUL CAREER.

My New York

by Mel Heimer

MONTREAL, Canada — It was Bugs Baer, I think, who sat back reflectively one day and said that when you got out of New York, all cities were Bridgeport, Conn.

The amiable bitterness in that remark does not particularly come to mind when you visit this city, once the pride of the rum runners, but the basic thought behind it does. For if you trundle around the streets of Montreal in a bus or taxi, except for the occasional sign in French you would be hard put to tell whether you were in Cleveland, Pittsburgh or Akron. There only are a handful of cities into which you can be dumped abruptly and know immediately where you are—Boston, for instance, or San Francisco, or New Orleans, or Rome or Edinburgh.

When you walk into the Normandie Room, it is as if you were walking into the Empire Room of the Waldorf-Astoria in New York. You had been in the Empire Room just a few days before; the memory of it is reasonably strong with you . . . and now you enter this room in a Canadian hotel, hundreds of miles north of the Waldorf—and you might just as well be back at Park and 50th. The seating arrangement is the same. The cutlery looks the same and event the waiters don't look any different.

The sameness of the world, the world over, comes to you only when the similarity is narrowed down more closely. Tonight, for example, you clean up in your third-floor room at the Windsor and then you drift up the street to the Mount Royal, where you walk through the lobby and into the room they call the Normandie.

The feeling that you have seen this routine before begins when you see the cigaret girl, outside the door. She is pure platinum blond and she swishes prettily as she walks. A hundred of her cousins can be observed in any good saloon in Manhattan.

A good dance band comes out and plays the perennials—"Just One Of Those Things," "Love For Sale" and all the rest—and you watch the wealthier people of Canada get up on the dance floor and perform. And you know what? They look just like people in the Waldorf. Maybe this is because a lot of the people who go to the Waldorf are out-of-towners.

In spite of its name and its connection with the suave Mr. Hilton, the Waldorf is populated generously by souls who are more homy than chic. The diners and dancers you see in the Waldorf's Empire Room rarely are the same citizens you see watching the show at the Blue Angel or Ruben Bleu.

A pretty girl with a sweet voice comes out and sings with the band and you scratch around and discover her name is Norma Hutton. Doubtless without a doubt you will see her one night soon at the Waldorf, singing with a different band. A magician comes out and does card tricks suavely.

There are windows at the rear of the darkened room, and as you sit there and watch the floor show, your attention wanders to the windows and you look out and see the twinkling electric lights of the city and the cars rolling by. I am in Canada now, you tell yourself, but it's hard to remember.

Later, you walk back through the tinny, jazzy streets of the town to your hotel. The stores are dark, but they are familiar—shirt shops, drugstores selling razorblades and bedroom slippers, antique establishments, orange-juice stands.

The streets of this part of town seem littered with vagrants, drifting aimlessly through the night and asking you for a handout. You stroll past a park and it is like any seedy, peaceful little park in any medium-sized city anywhere. Make me feel I'm in Canada, you mutter to the city, but the city pays you no never mind.

Latter the big DS-4 lifts you into the air easily and heads south. She climbs swiftly, the floor beneath you seeming to push you steeply into the sky, and you look out the little round window, past the wing tip at the lights of Montreal, receding in the dark night.

Then you unstrap your lap belt, light a cigaret and sit back with a faint smug smile, because in an hour and three quarters you will be in the one city that grabs you and shakes you and says you know who I am, don't you?

Don't let broken veins mar your complexion and poise! Learn this technique to camouflage them!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Among the most distressed queries that find their way into my mail are those from charmers whose otherwise lovely complexions are marred by broken veins.

Although we know of no cure at this time, the skillful use of cosmetics will alleviate both the veined effect and the unnatural flush that they cause, toning them down to the vanishing point. It is important to practice the technique of application until you perfect it so note each step carefully:

Clever Cover-up

After cleansing your face, apply an opaque type of powder base in a shade that matches your normal skin coloring. Be sparing in the amount you use and smooth it on so evenly that no line of demarcation can be seen at the chin, ears and hairline. If one application is insufficient, apply a second after the first has had time to set. But never try to get coverage with one heavy layer of base or the result is sure to look false.

Any veins that refuse to be screened out after this careful application will yield to the artful use of a lipstick brush and some rouge. Using a very light tint of either cream or fluid rouge, fill in the spaces between the veins. Use great care to avoid touching the veins themselves with rouge as that would defeat your purpose.

Allow this application to set for at least ten minutes. Then spread a layer of tissue over the entire face like a mask and with light pressure, firm it against the whole surface. Now peel it off from the top downward.

Next, lavishly press on powder and let it set before removing any excess with light downward strokes of a clean cotton ball. Lastly, take a good look in the mirror. The effect will put to flight any vestige of self-consciousness you may have had over your difficulty.

Prevention Important

To prevent any spread of the problem, avoid the use of both hot water and ice on your face. Seek the advice of a doctor before employing facials or massage. Always handle your skin with a feather touch.

Most complexion handicaps can either be minimized or eliminated by intelligent treatment. If you are plagued by one, send it to this column's Question Box in care of this newspaper and watch for a speedy answer in this space.

My New York

by Mel Heimer

MONTREAL, Canada — It was Bugs Baer, I think, who sat back reflectively one day and said that when you got out of New York, all cities were Bridgeport, Conn.

The amiable bitterness in that remark does not particularly come to mind when you visit this city, once the pride of the rum runners, but the basic thought behind it does. For if you trundle around the streets of Montreal in a bus or taxi, except for the occasional sign in French you would be hard put to tell whether you were in Cleveland, Pittsburgh or Akron. There only are a handful of cities into which you can be dumped abruptly and know immediately where you are—Boston, for instance, or San Francisco, or New Orleans, or Rome or Edinburgh.

Motor Vehicles Department Urges License Revocations For More Driving Offenses

BALTIMORE, Oct. 8 (AP)—The Motor Vehicles Department wants the law to read that if you are convicted of any of eight highway violations your driver's license is revoked-right now.

The Legislative Council was asked today to drop one word from the law which now reads the department shall refuse, revoke or suspend licenses for certain violations.

The word is "suspend" and would make revocation mandatory upon conviction.

Deputy Commissioner W. Dana Rudy, explained that convictions now result in suspensions and revocations normally follow. The change in the law would save a lot of paper work and inconvenience to drivers in trouble, he said.

Would Broaden Law.

The law now has six causes for revocation and Rudy suggested two others—conviction of driving at more than 70 miles an hour, and conviction in any moving violation which results in death.

The present causes are manslaughter, driving drunk, a felony in which a vehicle is used, failure to stop after accidents, perjury in statements to the department, and turning off lights to avoid identification.

Rudy and Earl C. Rexroth, head of the financial responsibility department, offered several amendments to the motor vehicles law for the council to consider. They stressed that all of them were drafted to meet present day needs.

The council also heard from Dr. Russell Fisher, chief state medical examiner, and Julius Maurer of the Maryland Police Commission a plea for a law providing scientific tests for intoxication.

Urges Sobriety Test

Dr. Fisher recommended the "breath"test as best and said he would appear later to show how it worked.

The examiner told the council that in Baltimore last year 43 per cent of pedestrians and 45 per cent of drivers who died in traffic mishaps had been drinking.

He said law enforcement officers want to "do something about the 584 Maryland traffic deaths we had last year." Dr. Fisher said that about one-third of all the fatalities had been directly attributed to influence of alcohol.

In proposing mandatory revocation for speeding over 70 miles an hour, Rudy told the council there is no limit now. Before 1943, he said, there was a 60-mile limit for revocations.

The Maryland speed limit is 50 miles on ordinary roads and 55 miles on dual highways.

Tighter Insurance Law

On adding a cause of conviction in any "moving" violation resulting in death. Rudy noted that few magistrates ever hand down sentences for manslaughter.

Rexroth told the Council the time has come to raise the figures for financial responsibility. The law now requires proof of financial responsibility after accidents before licenses are returned.

The figure now is $5,000 for death or injury to one person, $10,000 for two persons and $1,000 property damage. Rexroth said the figures should be increased to $10,000, $20,000 and $5,000.

Other Proposals

He also proposed:

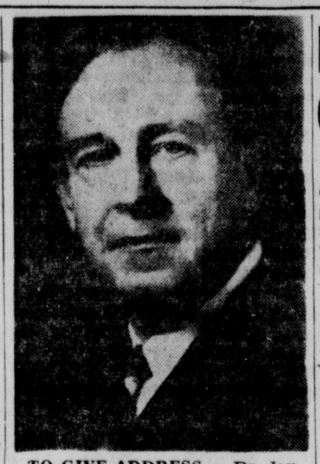

1. That owners and operators be allowed five days in which to report accidents. The limit now is 48 hours. This woud give everyone more time to obtain accurate details.
2. That no accidents of less than $100 need be reported. The figure now is $50 and Rexroth said this too low, resulting in a lot of work dealing only with "fender accidents."
3. To allow for 90 days after an accident of $100 or more for suspension of licenses. This would allow more time for the department to make a full investigation.

Among Rudy's other recommendations were:

1. Licensing of drivers' schools in Maryland.
2. Provide for a minimum of six months before a driver can apply for a new license after his other was revoked. The limit is now three months.
3. To eliminate the requirement for hearing in all suspension or revocation cases. Drivers may request hearings but dropping of other cases would save much time and effort.

Probe Of Bus Crash Begins

The Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission has ordered an investigation into "all phases" of the bus-truck smashup on the Pennsylvania Turnpike Saturday in which four Greyhound passengers died.

PUC investigators began work yesterday and Chairman Harold A. Spragg said public hearings will be scheduled as soon as possible.

Driver of the bus, Norman E. Crider, 24, of York, Pa., has been ordered held on four separate charges of involuntary manslaughter.

Greyhound Bus Line officials, said a company "safety car" was near the scene of the wreck near Somerset and records show Crider had not been speeding before the bus smashed into the steel-loaded trailer truck. In addition to the four dead, 12 were injured.

Roy Alexander of the bus line safety department, also revealed Crider may be suffering from amnesia as a result of the tragedy.

Greyhound takes disciplinary action against drivers who go more than 52-53 miles an hour on the Turnpike.

Action by the PUC came as the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission which denies its speed limits are too fast, prepared to issue an answer to widespread criticism of the highway's 70-mile maximum speed and of enforcement of traffic regulations.

Mrs. See reports Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin has issued the proclammation for the second Poetry Day. The first proclammation last year is on display at the Cumberland Free Public Library.

Mrs. See announced the contest will run from next Wednesday until January 1.

Each high school entering the event will select the entry by popular vote. The prize will be a free course in poetry technique.

Mrs. See noted that poets, as other artists, must constantly improve their techniques.

In observance of the day, Mrs. See will give a program of contemporary poetry over a local radio station Wednesday evening. Included will be a memoriam to William Shepherd Sparks, formerly of Cash Valley and Frederick A. Thayer Jr., of Oakland, two area poets who died recently.

One of her presentations will be a poem by the poet laureate of West Virginia, Roy Lee Harman, a member of the state's House of Delegates.

The special will go to St. Louis by way of Parkersburg, W. Va., Chillicothe, Ohio, Cincinnati and Louisville. It will return Friday by way of Chicago, Garrett, Ind., Willard, Ohio, Glenwood and Connellsville, Pa. and Cumberland.

The monthly meeting of the Board will be held next Wednesday aboard the special as it heads for St. Louis.

Howard Bruce and Robert Garrett, Baltimore members of the board, will be hosts for the civic dinner on October 14.

Motorists Warned About New Light

Police yesterday warned motorists to heed a new traffic light installed about two weeks ago at the intersection of Virginia Avenue and Second Street.

Although some complaints have been received about the device being too high, Assistant Chief B. Frank Gaffney said drivers have ample time to observe the signals.

Tractor-trailers and trucks would hit the traffic light if it were lowered, Gaffney added.

In line with an educational program conducted by police prior to law enforcement, no arrests have been made since installation of the device. However the warning stage has ended, effective today.

Local Church Plans Evangelistic Crusade

Rev. E. W. Gearhart, pastor of First Christian Church, has announced that the church will conduct an evangelistic crusade Monday, October 13, to Sunday, October 26. The meetings will be held daily, except Saturdays, and will get underway at 7:30 p. m.

The speaker will be Rev. J. F. Messenger, pastor of the Somerset (Pa.) First Christian Church, and the singer will be his son, Rev. J. Fenton Messenger, pastor of Berkeley Hills Christian Church, Johnstown, Pa.

The former served as pastor of the largest church in the world of his denomination, at Canton, Ohio, before becoming a missionary to Japan, where his son was born. Rev. J. Fenton Messenger was a chaplain with the armed forces during World War II.

He and his father have conducted evangelistic meetings in Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky and Pennsylvania and the local crusade will mark their first meeting as a team in Maryland, Rev. Gearhart said.

$10,000 Damage Suit Filed Against Store

A $10,000 damage suit against a local store was filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court by a Gilmore woman.

Mollie Williams is suing McCrory's 5 & 10c Store, 112 Baltimore Street, through her attorney Edward J. Ryan.

The suit declares the woman went to the store lunch counter May 12 and as she sat on a stool the seat revolved, tilted back and threw her to the floor.

She contends she suffered a fractured pubis bone and fracture of the 11th dorsal vertebra. As a result of this accident, the Gilmore woman claims, she has become permanently disabled.

From May 12 to July 27 she was confined to a hospital, the suit states, and since that time has been confined to a wheel chair, requiring the assistance of others in taking care of her.

A 1927 graduate of the Naval Academy, Capt. Allen has served aboard the Cruiser USS Chicago which was sunk in World War II; the USS Santa Fe; Carriers Yorktown and Enterprise, receiving the Presidential Unit Citation and Navy Unit Citation while gunnery officer with Carrier Division II.

Beall Plans High School Wrestling Program

Ray Hull To Teach New Sport

Extensive Intermural Training Bouts, Team Meets Put On Agenda

A sport old to the annals of time but new on the agendas of most local area high schools will be brought to life this winter at Frostburg's Beall High School under the tutelege of Head Football Coach Ray Hull. It is high school wrestling.

Hull, a member of a Waynesburg College intermural wrestling team, said last night he hopes to instill local interest in the sport both from a participant's and spectator's point of view. Tentative plans call for the first call for wrestling classes to be made following the close of the football season and Thanksgiving holidays.

Classes will be taught the high school and college forms of the sport and intermural bouts will be held during the winter at Beall. Hull also hopes to line up interscholastic meets with such school teams as Bedford, Everett and West Virginia School for Deaf.

Wrestling bouts are held in weight classes somewhat similar to boxing, starting with 85 pounds and ranging to the unlimited or heavyweight class.

Points in high school wrestling are allowed for throws, take downs, falls or pins and the bouts are limited to three three-minute periods. Points scored in each bout go toward a team's final point value to determine the team winner as well as individual champions.

Hull hopes to put on an exhibition wrestling bout with members of Waynesburg College's unbeaten squad giving the demonstration. The Beall mentor's Alma Mater has promised the team for the exhibition sometime in the near future.

Waynesburg, currently undefeated in college ranks for the past three years, has two national champions on its team this season, Hull asserted, and he believes an exhibition of the sport could do much toward brightning the prospects for its continuance in the Frostburg school as well as starting the program in other area schools.

Charles Kayoes Bernie Reynolds

Ex-Champ Wins In Second Round

CINCINNATI, Oct. 8 (AP)—Ezzard Charles, former heavyweight champion, tonight knocked out Bernie Reynolds of Cliffside, N. J., in one minute and 40 seconds of the second round of a scheduled 12-round bout.

Charles, weighing 189, felt his opponent out carefully in the first round, sized him up, and put the finisher with a series of lefts and rights to the chin in the second. Reynolds weighed 187.

Charles, fighting his first bout in his home town in two years, was sharp and in wonderful condition. He took several heavy body punches in the first round and delivered the same to his 25-year-old opponent.

At the beginning of the second round, Charles, scenting a quick victory, came out of his corner punching. Reynolds tried to exchange punches, but three quick lefts to the chin, a couple of rights, and another left sent him sprawling on his back, where he was counted out.

Momsen, who started the season with the Chicago Cardinals, will be used as a defensive middle guard. He is playing his second season of professional football.

Tatum Pleased With Team Play

Looseness Indicates Better Confidence

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Oct. 8 (AP) —Things are looking right today to Coach Jim Tatum because his undefeated Maryland gridders are making mistakes without being hurt by them.

"They've got their confidence now so that even when they do miss an assignment they still make the play go," he said. "That's one of the best ways to tell when your team is up."

That's the way it was Saturday in Maryland's 28-0 triumph over Clemson. "They messed up assignments several times, but were so loose and had so much drive the plays went for gains anyway," continued Tatum.

"Against Missouri and Auburn they hardly made a mistake but they were so choked up they couldn't move. They were afraid they wouldn't be able to live up to preseason expectations and so tightened up."

The difference in being loose and tight showed up sharply. Maryland had to come from behind in the fourth quarter to beat Missouri 13-10 and Auburn 13-7. They had four touchdowns early in the third quarter against Clemson and might have doubled the score if Tatum hadn't kept his first stringers on the bench for the rest of the game.

Mountaineers Seek First Win Over Fort Hill

Resume Series Dropped In 1949

The Beall High Mountaineers will seek their first victory over Fort Hill tomorrow night at the local stadium when Coach Ray Hull brings his Frostburgers here for an 8 p. m. tussle with Caoch Bill Hahn's crew.

Both teams will be on the rebound from losing scores last weekend when Beall dropped a 12-0 decision to Frederick and Fort Hill lost 21-20 to Martinsburg.

On the outcome of Beall unexpected strength against Allegany, when the Mountaineers lost only 13-7 in the final period, and the tight contest against unbeaten Frederick, tomorrow night's contest looms as the closest of the three meetings between the two schools.

Mountaineers dropped a 35-0 decision to Fort Hill in 1947 and lost 55-7 to the Sentinels again in 1948. The rivalry was then dropped between the two teams until the Mounties were again added to the Fort Hill schedule this season.

When Beall first began its new football career in 1946 the Mounties lost 33-6 and 25-12 to Fort Hill and Allegany "B" teams respectively but since have been battling the varsity elevens.

Coach Hahn reported last night John Shelton, William Orndorff, Jim Gaffney and Bob Pence will be the officials for the stadium contest.

Other Friday contests will find Franklin at Petersburg and Ridgeley at Moorefield in a pair of Potomac Valley Conference tilts; Berkeley Springs at Harpers Ferry, Charles Town at Martinsburg in a night affair, Bedford at Roaring Springs and Terra Alta at Thomas.

Saturday Allegany's Campers will host Keyser at 8 p. m. in Fort Hill stadium in the 31st meeting between the two old rvals. Other Saturday frays pit West Virginia School for Deaf against Virginia Deaf at Virginia, and Frederick at Richard Montgomery, in Rockville.

Sunday LaSalle High's Explorers, idle last week, will travel to McSherrytown, Pa., to battle Delone High in an afternoon fracas.

Today Circleville strives for its fourth straight victory when Coach Guy Propst's eleven meets Elkins High's "B" squad at Elkins.

Joe Gordon Signed As Detroit Scout

DETROIT, Oct. 8 (AP) — Joe Gordon, former star second baseman with the New York Yankees and Cleveland Indians, was signed today by the Detroit Tigers as supervisor of a revamped Pacific Coast scouting system.

Soccer Games Added

Beall High's soccer team has added home-and-home games with Northern High of Garrett County to its schedule. The Mountaineers will host the Garrett team Friday at Frostburg, beginning at 3:30 p. m. and will travel to Accident for the return battle Oct. 31.

Holmes Signs As Pilot Of Milwaukee

Walters To Return To Braves As Coach

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (AP) — Brooklyn-born Tommy Holmes, who got into his second World Series this year as a result of being fired as manager of the Boston Braves, returned to the Boston organization and to managing today.

Tommy Holmes

Holmes signed this morning as manager of the Braves' American Association farm club, the Milwaukee Brewers, after General Manager John Quinn of the Braves obtained Brooklyn's permission to negotiate with him.

At Milwaukee, Holmes succeeds Bucky Walters, who asked to return to Boston as coach after finishing the season as manager and piloting the Brewers to the American Association pennant. They lost out in the playoffs to Kansas City.

This move completed a series of managerial switches which began when Billy Southworth resigned as Boston manager in June, 1951. Holmes was promoted from the post of manager of the Hartford Eastern League club to replace Southworth.

He lifted the Braves from fifth place to fourth last year, but when they got off to a wretched start this season, Holmes was dropped as manager. Charlie Grimm was moved up from Milwaukee to the Braves and Walters, a Boston coach, was sent down temporarily to run the Brewers.

Holmes, who spent most of his baseball life with the Boston club, finished out the 1952 season as pinch hitter and utility outfielder with the Dodgers. In the World Series against the Yankees he took part in two games as an outfield replacement, went to bat once and failed to get a hit.

Hepworth Placed On Navy Varsity

Former Plebe Star To Replace Fisher

ANNAPOLIS, Oct. 8 (AP) — Bob Hepworth, freshman star of a year ago whose football future appeared sunk last spring, today had climbed to a starting post in Navy's backfield.

Coach Eddie Erdelatz said Hepworth would replace injured Don Fisher at left half when the Middies go against William and Mary this Saturday.

Fisher's hip was badly bruised last Saturday at Cornell. He's definitely out for William and Mary, Erdelatz said, and a doubtful starter against Maryland next week.

Hepworth came to grief with a post-season injury last year that kept him out of spring practice and made the trail back this fall steep and long. He'd led the Plebes in scoring and ground gaining — then broke his collarbone in an intramural touch football game.

Erdelatz brought him up from the junior varsity a couple of weeks before Navy knocked off Yale in its opener two games ago. But until this week the 185-pounder from Derry, N. H., was only a substitute wingback in Navy's single wing-box offense.

NCAA Committees To Meet In Chicago

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 8 (INS)—Two key committees of the National Collegiate Athletic Association—the executive committee and council—will meet in Chicago next week to act on several reports expected to have a sharp influence on the future course of college athletic administration.

Walter Byers, NCAA executive director, said today that the sessions will mark final pre-convention preparations for the NCAA's 47th annual meeting in Washington, D. C., Jan. 8-10.

Reports to be made next week include those by the membership committee and the extra events committee. The membership report will cover at least three cases of alleged non-observance of NCAA requirements by member institutions. The extra events committee has just finished an extensive survey of post-season competition.

Sports Notes

By JOHN W. KNOWLTON

A letter to Al Darby, local NEWS reporter, from a friend of his in Richmond, Va., reveals the writer of the missile to have been a former member of the football team of 1902 at Washington and Lee, when W&L and West Virginia met at Charleston that year on the gridiron . . . George E. Haw, a Richmond lawyer, is one of the few surviving members of the W&L team of that memorable game 50 years ago . . . Others are Tubby Stone, now living in North Carolina, Babe Marshall who is a minister in Virginia, and Puck Walker, a chief engineer for Atlantic Coast Line . . . Haw recalls memories of the game which West Virginia won by a touchdown, one being it was played in the rain and a small excavation at one end of the field proved to be a sort of "swimmin' hole" when several players were tackled during play and fell in the water-filled hole.

The only surviving member of the West Virginia team of 1902 is Paul H. Martin, a Martinsburg attorney . . . Martin has indicated he plans to attend the local "Industrial Bowl" game, here Oct. 18 at Fort Hill Stadium between West Virginia and W&L.

Don Decker's four placements against Clemson Saturday in the "Probation Bowl" game gave the former Fort Hill High guard a total of six for eight in Maryland's three games to date.

Coach Edward L. Athey, former Allegany High basketball star, opened his Washington College cross-country season yesterday with Towson . . . Athey, director of athletics at the Chestertown school, doubles in brass as cross country and cage coach in addition to his duties as athletic moderator.

A card from Vic Ricker, former local fight promoter who managed Kayo Yutzy, reveals he is in California . . . Vic writes "Out here looking for another Yutzy."

Donora High, which meets LaSalle High's Explorers later this season, kept its record unbeaten with a 19-19 tie with Charleroi Sept. 27 and a 20-0 victory over Latrobe last week.

Holland Kelley's Harlem Hoboes, colored basketball quint has reserved Nov. 7 for a game here in Cumberland. . . . However, considering the earliness of the date and the fact the local pro cagers have not as yet considered playing this season it is doubtful if the date will be filled.

According to a report of the Maryland Inland Game and Fish Commission, Garrett County Conservation Association is trying to get the Youghiogheny River cleaned up so it may become a fishing stream. . . . The 40-mile river winding through the northwest corner of the state is polluted by seepage from coal mines in the area and the association, formed by some 90 sportsmen, reports further pollution from natural gas wells which are being drilled there.

Beall Plans High School Wrestling Program

Ray Hull To Teach New Sport

Extensive Intermural Training Bouts, Team Meets Put On Agenda

A sport old to the annals of time but new on the agendas of most local area high schools will be brought to life this winter at Frostburg's Beall High School under the tutelege of Head Football Coach Ray Hull. It is high school wrestling.

Hull, a member of a Waynesburg College intermural wrestling team, said last night he hopes to instill local interest in the sport both from a participant's and spectator's point of view. Tentative plans call for the first call for wrestling classes to be made following the close of the football season and Thanksgiving holidays.

Classes will be taught the high school and college forms of the sport and intermural bouts will be held during the winter at Beall. Hull also hopes to line up interscholastic meets with such school teams as Bedford, Everett and West Virginia School for Deaf.

Wrestling bouts are held in weight classes somewhat similar to boxing, starting with 85 pounds and ranging to the unlimited or heavyweight class.

Points in high school wrestling are allowed for throws, take downs, falls or pins and the bouts are limited to three three-minute periods. Points scored in each bout go toward a team's final point value to determine the team winner as well as individual champions.

Hull hopes to put on an exhibition wrestling bout with members of Waynesburg College's unbeaten squad giving the demonstration. The Beall mentor's Alma Mater has promised the team for the exhibition sometime in the near future.

Waynesburg, currently undefeated in college ranks for the past three years, has two national champions on its team this season, Hull asserted, and he believes an exhibition of the sport could do much toward brightning the prospects for its continuance in the Frostburg school as well as starting the program in other area schools.

Charles Kayoes Bernie Reynolds

Ex-Champ Wins In Second Round

CINCINNATI, Oct. 8 (AP)—Ezzard Charles, former heavyweight champion, tonight knocked out Bernie Reynolds of Cliffside, N. J., in one minute and 40 seconds of the second round of a scheduled 12-round bout.

Charles, weighing 189, felt his opponent out carefully in the first round, sized him up, and put the finisher with a series of lefts and rights to the chin in the second. Reynolds weighed 187.

Charles, fighting his first bout in his home town in two years, was sharp and in wonderful condition. He took several heavy body punches in the first round and delivered the same to his 25-year-old opponent.

At the beginning of the second round, Charles, scenting a quick victory, came out of his corner punching. Reynolds tried to exchange punches, but three quick lefts to the chin, a couple of rights, and another left sent him sprawling on his back, where he was counted out.

Tatum Pleased With Team Play

Looseness Indicates Better Confidence

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Oct. 8 (AP) —Things are looking right today to Coach Jim Tatum because his undefeated Maryland gridders are making mistakes without being hurt by them.

"They've got their confidence now so that even when they do miss an assignment they still make the play go," he said. "That's one of the best ways to tell when your team is up."

That's the way it was Saturday in Maryland's 28-0 triumph over Clemson. "They messed up assignments several times, but were so loose and had so much drive the plays went for gains anyway," continued Tatum.

"Against Missouri and Auburn they hardly made a mistake but they were so choked up they couldn't move. They were afraid they wouldn't be able to live up to preseason expectations and so tightened up."

The difference in being loose and tight showed up sharply. Maryland had to come from behind in the fourth quarter to beat Missouri 13-10 and Auburn 13-7. They had four touchdowns early in the third quarter against Clemson and might have doubled the score if Tatum hadn't kept his first stringers on the bench for the rest of the game.

Mountaineers Seek First Win Over Fort Hill

Resume Series Dropped In 1949

The Beall High Mountaineers will seek their first victory over Fort Hill tomorrow night at the local stadium when Coach Ray Hull brings his Frostburgers here for an 8 p. m. tussle with Caoch Bill Hahn's crew.

Both teams will be on the rebound from losing scores last weekend when Beall dropped a 12-0 decision to Frederick and Fort Hill lost 21-20 to Martinsburg.

On the outcome of Beall unexpected strength against Allegany, when the Mountaineers lost only 13-7 in the final period, and the tight contest against unbeaten Frederick, tomorrow night's contest looms as the closest of the three meetings between the two schools.

Mountaineers dropped a 35-0 decision to Fort Hill in 1947 and lost 55-7 to the Sentinels again in 1948. The rivalry was then dropped between the two teams until the Mounties were again added to the Fort Hill schedule this season.

When Beall first began its new football career in 1946 the Mounties lost 33-6 and 25-12 to Fort Hill and Allegany "B" teams respectively but since have been battling the varsity elevens.

Coach Hahn reported last night John Shelton, William Orndorff, Jim Gaffney and Bob Pence will be the officials for the stadium contest.

Other Friday contests will find Franklin at Petersburg and Ridgeley at Moorefield in a pair of Potomac Valley Conference tilts; Berkeley Springs at Harpers Ferry, Charles Town at Martinsburg in a night affair, Bedford at Roaring Springs and Terra Alta at Thomas.

Saturday Allegany's Campers will host Keyser at 8 p. m. in Fort Hill stadium in the 31st meeting between the two old rvals. Other Saturday frays pit West Virginia School for Deaf against Virginia Deaf at Virginia, and Frederick at Richard Montgomery, in Rockville.

Sunday LaSalle High's Explorers, idle last week, will travel to McSherrytown, Pa., to battle Delone High in an afternoon fracas.

Today Circleville strives for its fourth straight victory when Coach Guy Propst's eleven meets Elkins High's "B" squad at Elkins.

Joe Gordon Signed As Detroit Scout

DETROIT, Oct. 8 (AP) — Joe Gordon, former star second baseman with the New York Yankees and Cleveland Indians, was signed today by the Detroit Tigers as supervisor of a revamped Pacific Coast scouting system.

Soccer Games Added

Beall High's soccer team has added home-and-home games with Northern High of Garrett County to its schedule. The Mountaineers will host the Garrett team Friday at Frostburg, beginning at 3:30 p. m. and will travel to Accident for the return battle Oct. 31.

Holmes Signs As Pilot Of Milwaukee

Walters To Return To Braves As Coach

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (AP) — Brooklyn-born Tommy Holmes, who got into his second World Series this year as a result of being fired as manager of the Boston Braves, returned to the Boston organization and to managing today.

Tommy Holmes

Holmes signed this morning as manager of the Braves' American Association farm club, the Milwaukee Brewers, after General Manager John Quinn of the Braves obtained Brooklyn's permission to negotiate with him.

At Milwaukee, Holmes succeeds Bucky Walters, who asked to return to Boston as coach after finishing the season as manager and piloting the Brewers to the American Association pennant. They lost out in the playoffs to Kansas City.

This move completed a series of managerial switches which began when Billy Southworth resigned as Boston manager in June, 1951. Holmes was promoted from the post of manager of the Hartford Eastern League club to replace Southworth.

He lifted the Braves from fifth place to fourth last year, but when they got off to a wretched start this season, Holmes was dropped as manager. Charlie Grimm was moved up from Milwaukee to the Braves and Walters, a Boston coach, was sent down temporarily to run the Brewers.

Holmes, who spent most of his baseball life with the Boston club, finished out the 1952 season as pinch hitter and utility outfielder with the Dodgers. In the World Series against the Yankees he took part in two games as an outfield replacement, went to bat once and failed to get a hit.

Hepworth Placed On Navy Varsity

Former Plebe Star To Replace Fisher

ANNAPOLIS, Oct. 8 (AP) — Bob Hepworth, freshman star of a year ago whose football future appeared sunk last spring, today had climbed to a starting post in Navy's backfield.

Coach Eddie Erdelatz said Hepworth would replace injured Don Fisher at left half when the Middies go against William and Mary this Saturday.

Fisher's hip was badly bruised last Saturday at Cornell. He's definitely out for William and Mary, Erdelatz said, and a doubtful starter against Maryland next week.

Hepworth came to grief with a post-season injury last year that kept him out of spring practice and made the trail back this fall steep and long. He'd led the Plebes in scoring and ground gaining — then broke his collarbone in an intramural touch football game.

Erdelatz brought him up from the junior varsity a couple of weeks before Navy knocked off Yale in its opener two games ago. But until this week the 185-pounder from Derry, N. H., was only a substitute wingback in Navy's single wing-box offense.

NCAA Committees To Meet In Chicago

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 8 (INS)—Two key committees of the National Collegiate Athletic Association—the executive committee and council—will meet in Chicago next week to act on several reports expected to have a sharp influence on the future course of college athletic administration.

Walter Byers, NCAA executive director, said today that the sessions will mark final pre-convention preparations for the NCAA's 47th annual meeting in Washington, D. C., Jan. 8-10.

Reports to be made next week include those by the membership committee and the extra events committee. The membership report will cover at least three cases of alleged non-observance of NCAA requirements by member institutions. The extra events committee has just finished an extensive survey of post-season competition.

Sports Notes

By JOHN W. KNOWLTON

A letter to Al Darby, local NEWS reporter, from a friend of his in Richmond, Va., reveals the writer of the missile to have been a former member of the football team of 1902 at Washington and Lee, when W&L and West Virginia met at Charleston that year on the gridiron . . . George E. Haw, a Richmond lawyer, is one of the few surviving members of the W&L team of that memorable game 50 years ago . . . Others are Tubby Stone, now living in North Carolina, Babe Marshall who is a minister in Virginia, and Puck Walker, a chief engineer for Atlantic Coast Line . . . Haw recalls memories of the game which West Virginia won by a touchdown, one being it was played in the rain and a small excavation at one end of the field proved to be a sort of "swimmin' hole" when several players were tackled during play and fell in the water-filled hole.

The only surviving member of the West Virginia team of 1902 is Paul H. Martin, a Martinsburg attorney . . . Martin has indicated he plans to attend the local "Industrial Bowl" game, here Oct. 18 at Fort Hill Stadium between West Virginia and W&L.

Don Decker's four placements against Clemson Saturday in the "Probation Bowl" game gave the former Fort Hill High guard a total of six for eight in Maryland's three games to date.

Coach Edward L. Athey, former Allegany High basketball star, opened his Washington College cross-country season yesterday with Towson . . . Athey, director of athletics at the Chestertown school, doubles in brass as cross country and cage coach in addition to his duties as athletic moderator.

A card from Vic Ricker, former local fight promoter who managed Kayo Yutzy, reveals he is in California . . . Vic writes "Out here looking for another Yutzy."

Donora High, which meets LaSalle High's Explorers later this season, kept its record unbeaten with a 19-19 tie with Charleroi Sept. 27 and a 20-0 victory over Latrobe last week.

Holland Kelley's Harlem Hoboes, colored basketball quint has reserved Nov. 7 for a game here in Cumberland. . . . However, considering the earliness of the date and the fact the local pro cagers have not as yet considered playing this season it is doubtful if the date will be filled.

According to a report of the Maryland Inland Game and Fish Commission, Garrett County Conservation Association is trying to get the Youghiogheny River cleaned up so it may become a fishing stream. . . . Indians Not Able To Play Winter Ball

CLEVELAND, Oct. 8 (AP)—General Hank Greenberg said today his Cleveland Indians, with one exception, may not play winter league baseball this season.

The exception is Rookie Pitcher Dick Weik, who expects to get out of the Army soon and wants to make some extra money as well as get into shape again. Greenberg said he has asked Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick to let Weik hurl in a winter league.

Sam Jones may be one of the reasons for the ban on extracurricular baseball. Jones, who twirled in the Puerto Rico winter league last year, reported for spring training with the Indians with a sore arm. He finally was sent to Indianapolis.

Daily Bridge Lesson

by Shepard Barclay

CAN BE AT THE START

MOST squeeze plays become operative on the eleventh trick, when the victim has to choose between discarding the highest card of one suit or his guard to the next-to-highest card of another suit, either proving fatal to his chances of taking any of the last two tricks. Some of them work earlier in the play. The earliest possible is the absolute start of the hand, the first trick, when any discard gives the squeezer—probably without his knowledge at the time—a trick.

	♠ 7 5 ♥ Q J 9 8 4 ♦ 8 5 4 3 2 ♣ K
♠ 8 6 4 3 2 ♥ None ♦ K Q 10 9 7 6 ♣ Q 9	N W E S	♠ Q J 10 ♥ 10 7 6 3 2 ♦ None ♣ 8 6 5 4 3
	♠ A K 9 ♥ A K 5 ♦ A J ♣ A J 10 7 2

(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 ♣	2 NT
3 ♦	Pass	Pass	4 ♣
Pass	4 ♥	Pass	6 NT

South could tell from his own powerhouse that it was impossible for anybody to have a standard sound opening bid, so he knew East had made a psychic. Letting this upset his judgment, he did some very bad bidding, first by taking a chance of being left in 2-No Trumps and later by favoring No Trumps, due to his honors, instead of his partner's hearts. But he was lucky enough in the play to make up for his bidding, as he took all the tricks.

West led his diamond K, which squeezed East, though nobody knew it at the time. Any discard by him would have been costly. He selected the club 3. After using the A, South then scored the club K, heart A, club A dropping the Q, club J, club 10 and the club 7, which squeezed East a second time. In order to keep his hearts, he threw off the spade 10. So then the heart K, Q and J, spade A, K and 9 swept up the rest of the tricks.

South required no particular skill to take all those tricks, but merely the luck he received in the way the defenders' cards were distributed, including his good fortune in finding the club Q only guarded once. However, even if it had been better guarded, he still could have made a dozen tricks by giving up one to West.

What would have been your first action, with South's hand, over East's 1-Club? Would you have doubled, or bid 2-Clubs, or what?

How should the North-South pair bid this rubber deal if opposed by defenders whom they considered not very good, but likely to present a trick somewhere?

Indians Not Able To Play Winter Ball

CLEVELAND, Oct. 8 (AP)—General Hank Greenberg said today his Cleveland Indians, with one exception, may not play winter league baseball this season.

The exception is Rookie Pitcher Dick Weik, who expects to get out of the Army soon and wants to make some extra money as well as get into shape again. Greenberg said he has asked Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick to let Weik hurl in a winter league.

Sam Jones may be one of the reasons for the ban on extracurricular baseball. Jones, who twirled in the Puerto Rico winter league last year, reported for spring training with the Indians with a sore arm. He finally was sent to Indianapolis.

Daily Bridge Lesson

CAN BE AT THE START

MOST squeeze plays become operative on the eleventh trick, when the victim has to choose between discarding the highest card of one suit or his guard to the next-to-highest card of another suit, either proving fatal to his chances of taking any of the last two tricks. Some of them work earlier in the play. The earliest possible is the absolute start of the hand, the first trick, when any discard gives the squeezer—probably without his knowledge at the time—a trick.

	♠ 7 5 ♥ Q J 9 8 4 ♦ 8 5 4 3 2 ♣ K

South could tell from his own powerhouse that it was impossible for anybody to have a standard sound opening bid, so he knew East had made a psychic. Letting this upset his judgment, he did some very bad bidding, first by taking a chance of being left in 2-No Trumps and later by favoring No Trumps, due to his honors, instead of his partner's hearts. But he was lucky enough in the play to make up for his bidding, as he took all the tricks.

West led his diamond K, which squeezed East, though nobody knew it at the time. Any discard by him would have been costly. He selected the club 3. After using the A, South then scored the club K, heart A, club A dropping the Q, club J, club 10 and the club 7, which squeezed East a second time. In order to keep his hearts, he threw off the spade 10. So then the heart K, Q and J, spade A, K and 9 swept up the rest of the tricks.

South required no particular skill to take all those tricks, but merely the luck he received in the way the defenders' cards were distributed, including his good fortune in finding the club Q only guarded once. However, even if it had been better guarded, he still could have made a dozen tricks by giving up one to West.

What would have been your first action, with South's hand, over East's 1-Club? Would you have doubled, or bid 2-Clubs, or what?

How should the North-South pair bid this rubber deal if opposed by defenders whom they considered not very good, but likely to present a trick somewhere?

Lonaconing Officials Asked To Attend Area Exposition

LONACONING—The mayor and council of Lonaconing received an invitation to attend the Cumberland Industrial Exposition October 16, 17 and 18, at a business session Monday evening.

The Lonaconing Businessmen Association invited the city officials to attend a dinner meeting November 6 at Alvin C. Neat Post No. 5280, Veterans of Foreign Wars home. The invitation was accepted.

John Eichhorn, president of Good Will Fire company No. 1, Lonaconing, advised the mayor and council of the need of hose and hand-lights. A gift of 200 feet of hose and the lights was made to the fire department.

Residents of Jackson Street appeared to complain of conditions on their street and the road committee promised an investigation. Street condition near Hadley's garage on Church Street will also be investigated.

A check of all street lights for needed repairs will be made by light company workers soon. A check on poison ivy and oak growing in the downtown area will also be made.

The mayor and council went on record as being opposed to the increase in the gas rates recently proposed by the gas company.

In the consideration of incorporating into the corporation limits Detmold, Dudley and Watercliffe areas, a committee of three councilmen, Fred Stoudt, Wilmuth Garlitz and Douglas Waddell, will confer with the town attorney, James Getty, to learn the possible costs and other abidements pertaining to the town laws.

The council chamber and magistrate's office have been painted and the jail and cells in the town building will be repainted. Venetian blinds will be installed on the windows of the magistrate's office and council hall.

An audit for 1952 was presented and accepted. The group will meet with Getty, Friday evening to plan for town legislation to be presented at the next session of the state legislature.

Monday, October 20 at 7:30 p. m. will be the next scheduled public meeting of the mayor and council.

Mayor Compton Seeks Safety In Road Work

Cites Possible Pedestrian Hazard

KEYSER — Mayor Chester J. Compton made a statement to City Council Tuesday afternoon that he wants to see greater safety for Keyser citizens during the continuation of the road work on U. S. Route 220.

He said that, after many consultations held jointly by the W. Va. Road Commission engineers and the officials of Keyser, the road is planned to provide a highway, regardless of the safety of citizens.

"I believe," the mayor said ,"that the proposed plan to make South Mineral Street from Piedmont Street to the southern boundary of Keyser a 40 foot highway is a sound plan from an engineering standpoint, and from the standpoint of facilitating the movement of traffic through the city. Those are the prime considerations from the standpoint of outside government.

"However, I am sure that there are other considerations from the viewpoint of this community.

"First, from a safety viewpoint, I believe that there is a safer plan. I cite the plan presently in operation—one-way traffic. This plan is being used increasingly by municipalities in West Virginia, as well as neighboring states and is accepted as the safest method from the standpoint of the communities' citizens. It stands to reason that the hazard of collision of vehicles is greatly reduced where traffic is moving in only one direction. (This was recently brought home very emphatically when two vehicles were involved in a head-on collision on that section of South Main Street that is set up for two-way traffic.)

"Surely the hazard to pedestrians is reduced when traffic is moving in only one direction. If the proposed plan becomes effective there will be a very heavy two-way traffic passing our public schools on South Mineral Street. In looking forward 20 years one can visualize that millions of pedestrians—school children and adults—will have to cross a highway with increasingly heavy, difficult-to-control traffic. It is inconceivable to think that there will not be a large toll of pedestrian asualties here.

"I feel strongly that provision for pedestrian safety should be made before any plan is approved," he added.

FROSTBURG—Most Rev. Francis P. Keough, archbishop of Baltimore, will be celebrant of the Pontificial High Mass at St. Michael's Catholic Church Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock, marking the opening of a week of festivities commemorating the 100th anniversary of the church.

A musical program of high order will be presented by the senior choir under the direction of Mrs. Anthony Bollino. Mrs. Richard Goldsworthy will be organist.

A reception and social for the parishioners and former members and visitors will be held in the parish hall Sunday at 2:30 p. m. A pageant depicting scenes of the history of the church will take place in the hall Sunday evening at 7:30, under the direction of Miss Angela Brady. Children of the parochial school and others will take part.

A full schedule of events for the entire week of the celebration has been arranged. A doll show will be held with prizes awarded; a bazaar and dance will be held nightly in the parish hall; a sacred concert by the choir in the church, Tuesday evening; a minstrel show, Wednesday evening at Beall High School; a public supper in the school cafeteria Thursday evening, and many other activities are listed.

A special feature of the celebration will be a street parade Thursday evening with many local organizations in line of march. The Mayor and City Commissioners of Frostburg have proclaimed the event as "Saint Michael's Week."

In preparation for the historical celebration, improvements costing thousands of dollars have been spent on the church and parish buildings within the past year, including the redecoration of the interior of the church and a new indirect lighting system; the enlargement of the sacristy; the installation of a new electric church organ; the painting of the interior of the school and parish hall; the renovation of the school cafeteria and rectory and repairs to the church roof and insulating the church. The property in general is now in excellent condition and is said to be one of the finest and most beautiful church plants in the Baltimore archdiocese.

Rev. Regis F. Larkin, assistant pastor, has compiled a history of the church covering the past 100 years in an attractive and interesting book which will be available to the parishioners and others interested.

Lonaconing Officials Asked To Attend Area Exposition

LONACONING—The mayor and council of Lonaconing received an invitation to attend the Cumberland Industrial Exposition October 16, 17 and 18, at a business session Monday evening.

The Lonaconing Businessmen Association invited the city officials to attend a dinner meeting November 6 at Alvin C. Neat Post No. 5280, Veterans of Foreign Wars home. The invitation was accepted.

John Eichhorn, president of Good Will Fire company No. 1, Lonaconing, advised the mayor and council of the need of hose and hand-lights. A gift of 200 feet of hose and the lights was made to the fire department.

Residents of Jackson Street appeared to complain of conditions on their street and the road committee promised an investigation. Street condition near Hadley's garage on Church Street will also be investigated.

A check of all street lights for needed repairs will be made by light company workers soon. A check on poison ivy and oak growing in the downtown area will also be made.

The mayor and council went on record as being opposed to the increase in the gas rates recently proposed by the gas company.

In the consideration of incorporating into the corporation limits Detmold, Dudley and Watercliffe areas, a committee of three councilmen, Fred Stoudt, Wilmuth Garlitz and Douglas Waddell, will confer with the town attorney, James Getty, to learn the possible costs and other abidements pertaining to the town laws.

The council chamber and magistrate's office have been painted and the jail and cells in the town building will be repainted. Venetian blinds will be installed on the windows of the magistrate's office and council hall.

An audit for 1952 was presented and accepted. The group will meet with Getty, Friday evening to plan for town legislation to be presented at the next session of the state legislature.

Monday, October 20 at 7:30 p. m. will be the next scheduled public meeting of the mayor and council.

Mayor Compton Seeks Safety In Road Work

Cites Possible Pedestrian Hazard

KEYSER — Mayor Chester J. Compton made a statement to City Council Tuesday afternoon that he wants to see greater safety for Keyser citizens during the continuation of the road work on U. S. Route 220.

He said that, after many consultations held jointly by the W. Va. Road Commission engineers and the officials of Keyser, the road is planned to provide a highway, regardless of the safety of citizens.

"I believe," the mayor said ,"that the proposed plan to make South Mineral Street from Piedmont Street to the southern boundary of Keyser a 40 foot highway is a sound plan from an engineering standpoint, and from the standpoint of facilitating the movement of traffic through the city. Those are the prime considerations from the standpoint of outside government.

"However, I am sure that there are other considerations from the viewpoint of this community.

"First, from a safety viewpoint, I believe that there is a safer plan. I cite the plan presently in operation—one-way traffic. This plan is being used increasingly by municipalities in West Virginia, as well as neighboring states and is accepted as the safest method from the standpoint of the communities' citizens. It stands to reason that the hazard of collision of vehicles is greatly reduced where traffic is moving in only one direction. (This was recently brought home very emphatically when two vehicles were involved in a head-on collision on that section of South Main Street that is set up for two-way traffic.)

"Surely the hazard to pedestrians is reduced when traffic is moving in only one direction. If the proposed plan becomes effective there will be a very heavy two-way traffic passing our public schools on South Mineral Street. In looking forward 20 years one can visualize that millions of pedestrians—school children and adults—will have to cross a highway with increasingly heavy, difficult-to-control traffic. It is inconceivable to think that there will not be a large toll of pedestrian asualties here.

"I feel strongly that provision for pedestrian safety should be made before any plan is approved," he added.

Pontifical High Mass To Mark Opening Of St. Michael's Centennial Events

FROSTBURG—Most Rev. Francis P. Keough, archbishop of Baltimore, will be celebrant of the Pontificial High Mass at St. Michael's Catholic Church Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock, marking the opening of a week of festivities commemorating the 100th anniversary of the church.

Rev. Michael K. Carney, pastor of St. Peter's Church, Oakland, will deliver the sermon and many visiting priests will be in attendance, including priests formerly stationed at the local church and members of the parish now serving in the priesthood.

A musical program of high order will be presented by the senior choir under the direction of Mrs. Anthony Bollino. Mrs. Richard Goldsworthy will be organist.

A reception and social for the parishioners and former members and visitors will be held in the parish hall Sunday at 2:30 p. m. A pageant depicting scenes of the history of the church will take place in the hall Sunday evening at 7:30, under the direction of Miss Angela Brady. Children of the parochial school and others will take part.

A full schedule of events for the entire week of the celebration has been arranged. A doll show will be held with prizes awarded; a bazaar and dance will be held nightly in the parish hall; a sacred concert by the choir in the church, Tuesday evening; a minstrel show, Wednesday evening at Beall High School; a public supper in the school cafeteria Thursday evening, and many other activities are listed.

A dinner will be served Archbishop Keough and the clergy following the Mass Sunday morning, and a dinner for the nuns of the parish and visiting nuns will be held in the convent. The Ursuline Sisters, who formerly comprised the faculty of the parish school, have also been invited.

A special feature of the celebration will be a street parade Thursday evening with many local organizations in line of march. The Mayor and City Commissioners of Frostburg have proclaimed the event as "Saint Michael's Week."

In preparation for the historical celebration, improvements costing thousands of dollars have been spent on the church and parish buildings within the past year, including the redecoration of the interior of the church and a new indirect lighting system; the enlargement of the sacristy; the installation of a new electric church organ; the painting of the interior of the school and parish hall; the renovation of the school cafeteria and rectory and repairs to the church roof and insulating the church. The property in general is now in excellent condition and is said to be one of the finest and most beautiful church plants in the Baltimore archdiocese.

Rev. Regis F. Larkin, assistant pastor, has compiled a history of the church covering the past 100 years in an attractive and interesting book which will be available to the parishioners and others interested.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 8 (INS)—I was very happy to learn that my old friend Jesse Lasky had obtained half of the financing he needs to make one of his dreams come true—the production of "The Big Brass Band," a story about John Phillip Sousa and other famous band leaders.

Better yet, the rest of the financing has been promised, and Jesse expects to get his picture under way in a few months. John Harris, owner and producer of "The Ice-Capades" put up the first half of the money.

It was Jesse who sold MGM the idea for "The Great Caruso," one of the studio's big money makers.

Teresa Wright was sent the script of "Years Ago"—and for the mother role, of all things! Spencer Tracy, who plays the father, says, "she grows younger by the minute and I grow older."

As I remember, the mother in Ruth Gordon's life story was young. Debbie Reynolds plays the daughter.

George Cukor is the director, and it is right down his alley, this sort of thing.

Teresa, who has kept herself away from her friends since her divorce, likes the script.

All seems quiet with the John Waynes — that is, domestically speaking. But life for John, career wise, is anything but quiet. I don't know anyone who makes as many movies as he does.

I was interested to hear that Warners had borrowed Donna Reed from Columbia for Wayne's leading lady in "Alma Mater," which starts next week with Michael Curtiz directing.

Charles Coburn has the role of a priest who hires John as football coach at the university. This is the first time in Charles' long career that he's ever played a priest. He's been a gambler, a crook, and all sorts of things, but always loveable.

At a very quiet luncheon just for the Johnnie Rays and Johnnie's father and mother, Joe Pasternak had a chance to discuss a motion picture with him. Johnnie is interested, but both he and Joe want to be sure they have the right vehicle.

Jack Benny, who knows talent as well as anyone, told me that he feels Johnnie has a real spiritual quality, a warmth, and is a perfectionist with great stage presence.

"I don't know when I have been so taken off my feet by any young singer," said Jack. "Ray's success is permanent and he has more to offer than just being a bobby-soxer's idol."

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Gloria De Haven and Marty Kimmel are mentioned in New York as a matrimonial prospect. Gloria opens here Oct. 14 at the Mocambo.

Richard Greene certainly does get around. He was at the Seven Seas with the former Mrs. Clark Gable one night, and the next he was at a table for two at the Captain's Table with Martha Tilton.

Hope it's not true that Ralph Meeker started acting like Mario Lanza at MGM. He seems like such a nice boy. At any rate, he and MGM have parted company.

Ray Heindorf, top musical director at Warners, has flown to New York to the bedside of his son, Michael, who is critically ill. The boy is a student at the Julliard School of Music.

Attorney Al Person and his wife, former Actress Deanie Best, have reconciled after a separation of several weeks.

Diana Barrymore, who has had so much bad luck in her career, has just inherited $15,000 from the estate of her mother.

Van Heflin will face the most critical audience of his life when "The Shrike" opens in New Haven Oct. 15. All Van's professors from Yale will be in the audience.

Helga Moray, formerly married to Tay Garnett, has her second novel due on the bookstands this month. It's called "Tisa."

October 5 was the 25th anniversary of the death of Sam Warner, one of the founders of Warner Brothers, and also the anniversary of "The Jazz Singer," which has just been made for the second time.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Because the moon takes about as long to travel around the earth as it does to turn around its own axis, the same part of the moon always faces the earth.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK—(INS)—What was the man saying about the West Point football scandal? And how's that again, about the college basketball fixers? And who fixed the eighth race? How about ring injuries?

Well, what about that World Series?

An event like the late lamented series can clear the sports air for months and maybe years to come. It was the finest, cleanest, best-conducted, most earnestly played sports affair I believe I've ever seen. Much has been made of the fact that Brooklyn has never won a series. But the Bums were far from disgraced in losing this one. Ask any Yankee.

There was so little basic difference between the winning Yanks and losing Dodgers that the series went the full seven games. There was hardly a feat achieved by the victors that was not equalled and in some cases surpassed by the losers. One of them, Duke Snider, is now one with Ruth and Gehrig in the record books, for his four homers.

The Yanks won because they had a shade more of that ineffable quality called class. Class has been defined fairly well as "grace under pressure." But there's more for the students of semantics to grope for. Maybe those seeking the true and ultimate delineation should study the Yanks. They've won the last four pennants and World Series, and at least a couple of those times they had to win on something beyond talent.

Call that extra something courage if you will. I'm never sure that word as lofty as that should be used in sportswriting in time of war. Americans were dying anonymously in Korea, because of courage, when the word was being bandied about Yankee Stadium and Ebbets Field. Moxie is perhaps a better word for use in sports.

Anyway, whatever it is that separates the Yanks from the pack, it was semi-transparent in thinness during the series. The Dodgers were never behind until the end. They kept winning the odd games, the first, third and fifth. When they won the third, and took a 2-1 lead, it meant the Yanks had to win three out of four. When they won the fifth and led 3-2, it meant the Yanks had to win the last two—and in Ebbets Field. The Yanks did.

It was so close in the seventh and final game that a vagrant puff of wind, the slant of a sun-ray, and a single pitch and catch meant the difference between victory and defeat. Plus the difference between the winning players' share of $6,000 and some and the losers' $4,000 and change.

A big Pole named Bob Kuzava was Casey Stengel's pitching choice when Vic Raschi came open at the seams in the seventh inning and filled the bases. Kuzava got the formidable Snider on a pop for the second out, and then went to work on Jackie Robinson.

This dire duel in the sun reached a point where the count was two balls and two strikes. Manager Charlie Dressen of the Dodgers had warned Robinson to look out for Kusava's darting fast ball. Jackie was looking out. Kuzava wound up and fired, and as he did the three men on bases streaked tentatively for home. Robinson was swinging.

Or was he? Kuzava had crossed him. He had thrown a spitting little curve. Jackie tried to check his swing, couldn't and hit a soggy infield fly. The Brooklyn rooters screamed in anguish.

Yet the game could have been won right there. Joe Collins, the Yankee first baseman, lost the ball in the sun. The wind caught it and blew it crazily out of its normal trajectory. Kuzava stood helplessly by. Yogi Berra couldn't reach it. Every Brooklyn was now running like wild.

A man named Billy Martin, his hat gone with the wind, made the catch—a lunging, all-out, desperate catch that saved a full week of equally desperate effort by the Yankees, and killed the last Dodger chance. If he had not caught it, three runs most certainly would have scored and the Dodgers would have led 5-4.

I heard a lot of people say this year they hoped the Dodgers would win because it would be "good for baseball." There couldn't be anything better for baseball than the Yanks. They're a great outfit; a constant challenge to the others. It is no fluke when a team loses a Ruth and has a Gehrig, loses a Gehrig and finds DiMaggio, loses him and comes up with Mickey Mantle, or finds a man like Allie Reynolds or a shop-worn superman like Johnny Mize.

It was an unforgettable series, one fit to make a lot of people forget most if not all of the unsavory side of the recent U. S. sports picture.

Board Plans To Halt New Water Pollution

In the interest of protecting the public against further water pollution of residential sources, the State Board of Health has asked the Department of Health to clamp down on building developments throughout the state.

Builders, the Board of Health said, are required to submit plans for providing a safe water supply and a satisfactory sewage system.

The announcement said the Bureau of Environmental Hygiene will investigate and prosecute developers who are not complying with a state law covering housing development hygiene.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 8 (INS)—I was very happy to learn that my old friend Jesse Lasky had obtained half of the financing he needs to make one of his dreams come true—the production of "The Big Brass Band," a story about John Phillip Sousa and other famous band leaders.

Better yet, the rest of the financing has been promised, and Jesse expects to get his picture under way in a few months. John Harris, owner and producer of "The Ice-Capades" put up the first half of the money.

It was Jesse who sold MGM the idea for "The Great Caruso," one of the studio's big money makers.

Teresa Wright was sent the script of "Years Ago"—and for the mother role, of all things! Spencer Tracy, who plays the father, says, "she grows younger by the minute and I grow older."

As I remember, the mother in Ruth Gordon's life story was young. Debbie Reynolds plays the daughter.

George Cukor is the director, and it is right down his alley, this sort of thing.

Teresa, who has kept herself away from her friends since her divorce, likes the script.

All seems quiet with the John Waynes — that is, domestically speaking. But life for John, career wise, is anything but quiet. I don't know anyone who makes as many movies as he does.

I was interested to hear that Warners had borrowed Donna Reed from Columbia for Wayne's leading lady in "Alma Mater," which starts next week with Michael Curtiz directing.

Charles Coburn has the role of a priest who hires John as football coach at the university. This is the first time in Charles' long career that he's ever played a priest. He's been a gambler, a crook, and all sorts of things, but always loveable.

At a very quiet luncheon just for the Johnnie Rays and Johnnie's father and mother, Joe Pasternak had a chance to discuss a motion picture with him. Johnnie is interested, but both he and Joe want to be sure they have the right vehicle.

Jack Benny, who knows talent as well as anyone, told me that he feels Johnnie has a real spiritual quality, a warmth, and is a perfectionist with great stage presence.

"I don't know when I have been so taken off my feet by any young singer," said Jack. "Ray's success is permanent and he has more to offer than just being a bobby-soxer's idol."

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Gloria De Haven and Marty Kimmel are mentioned in New York as a matrimonial prospect. Gloria opens here Oct. 14 at the Mocambo.

Richard Greene certainly does get around. He was at the Seven Seas with the former Mrs. Clark Gable one night, and the next he was at a table for two at the Captain's Table with Martha Tilton.

Hope it's not true that Ralph Meeker started acting like Mario Lanza at MGM. He seems like such a nice boy. At any rate, he and MGM have parted company.

Ray Heindorf, top musical director at Warners, has flown to New York to the bedside of his son, Michael, who is critically ill. The boy is a student at the Julliard School of Music.

Attorney Al Person and his wife, former Actress Deanie Best, have reconciled after a separation of several weeks.

Diana Barrymore, who has had so much bad luck in her career, has just inherited $15,000 from the estate of her mother.

Van Heflin will face the most critical audience of his life when "The Shrike" opens in New Haven Oct. 15. All Van's professors from Yale will be in the audience.

Helga Moray, formerly married to Tay Garnett, has her second novel due on the bookstands this month. It's called "Tisa."

October 5 was the 25th anniversary of the death of Sam Warner, one of the founders of Warner Brothers, and also the anniversary of "The Jazz Singer," which has just been made for the second time.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

108 On New Casualty List

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP) — The Defense Department yesterday identified 108 battle casualties in Korea. A new list included 21 killed, 79 wounded, six missing and two injured.

Because the moon takes about as long to travel around the earth as it does to turn around its own axis, the same part of the moon always faces the earth.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK—(INS)—What was the man saying about the West Point football scandal? And how's that again, about the college basketball fixers? And who fixed the eighth race? How about ring injuries?

Well, what about that World Series?

An event like the late lamented series can clear the sports air for months and maybe years to come. It was the finest, cleanest, best-conducted, most earnestly played sports affair I believe I've ever seen. Much has been made of the fact that Brooklyn has never won a series. But the Bums were far from disgraced in losing this one. Ask any Yankee.

There was so little basic difference between the winning Yanks and losing Dodgers that the series went the full seven games. There was hardly a feat achieved by the victors that was not equalled and in some cases surpassed by the losers. One of them, Duke Snider, is now one with Ruth and Gehrig in the record books, for his four homers.

The Yanks won because they had a shade more of that ineffable quality called class. Class has been defined fairly well as "grace under pressure." But there's more for the students of semantics to grope for. Maybe those seeking the true and ultimate delineation should study the Yanks. They've won the last four pennants and World Series, and at least a couple of those times they had to win on something beyond talent.

Call that extra something courage if you will. I'm never sure that word as lofty as that should be used in sportswriting in time of war. Americans were dying anonymously in Korea, because of courage, when the word was being bandied about Yankee Stadium and Ebbets Field. Moxie is perhaps a better word for use in sports.

Anyway, whatever it is that separates the Yanks from the pack, it was semi-transparent in thinness during the series. The Dodgers were never behind until the end. They kept winning the odd games, the first, third and fifth. When they won the third, and took a 2-1 lead, it meant the Yanks had to win three out of four. When they won the fifth and led 3-2, it meant the Yanks had to win the last two—and in Ebbets Field. The Yanks did.

It was so close in the seventh and final game that a vagrant puff of wind, the slant of a sun-ray, and a single pitch and catch meant the difference between victory and defeat. Plus the difference between the winning players' share of $6,000 and some and the losers' $4,000 and change.

A big Pole named Bob Kuzava was Casey Stengel's pitching choice when Vic Raschi came open at the seams in the seventh inning and filled the bases. Kuzava got the formidable Snider on a pop for the second out, and then went to work on Jackie Robinson.

This dire duel in the sun reached a point where the count was two balls and two strikes. Manager Charlie Dressen of the Dodgers had warned Robinson to look out for Kusava's darting fast ball. Jackie was looking out. Kuzava wound up and fired, and as he did the three men on bases streaked tentatively for home. Robinson was swinging.

Or was he? Kuzava had crossed him. He had thrown a spitting little curve. Jackie tried to check his swing, couldn't and hit a soggy infield fly. The Brooklyn rooters screamed in anguish.

Yet the game could have been won right there. Joe Collins, the Yankee first baseman, lost the ball in the sun. The wind caught it and blew it crazily out of its normal trajectory. Kuzava stood helplessly by. Yogi Berra couldn't reach it. Every Brooklyn was now running like wild.

A man named Billy Martin, his hat gone with the wind, made the catch—a lunging, all-out, desperate catch that saved a full week of equally desperate effort by the Yankees, and killed the last Dodger chance. If he had not caught it, three runs most certainly would have scored and the Dodgers would have led 5-4.

I heard a lot of people say this year they hoped the Dodgers would win because it would be "good for baseball." There couldn't be anything better for baseball than the Yanks. They're a great outfit; a constant challenge to the others. It is no fluke when a team loses a Ruth and has a Gehrig, loses a Gehrig and finds DiMaggio, loses him and comes up with Mickey Mantle, or finds a man like Allie Reynolds or a shop-worn superman like Johnny Mize.

It was an unforgettable series, one fit to make a lot of people forget most if not all of the unsavory side of the recent U. S. sports picture.

Board Plans To Halt New Water Pollution

In the interest of protecting the public against further water pollution of residential sources, the State Board of Health has asked the Department of Health to clamp down on building developments throughout the state.

Builders, the Board of Health said, are required to submit plans for providing a safe water supply and a satisfactory sewage system.

The announcement said the Bureau of Environmental Hygiene will investigate and prosecute developers who are not complying with a state law covering housing development hygiene.

STAG LINES for men

Matching Pajamas

Desi and Lucille Go Casual

FASHION: Newest thing in matching husband-wife togs are smartly tailored lounging pajamas. They are called "I Love Lucy" pajamas after Lucille Ball's TV show. She and husband Desi Arnaz (at right) are among the first to lounge in the brightly patterned models.

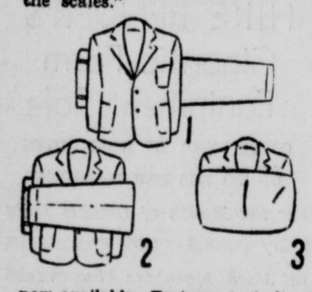

Idea Man: Last week's tip on saving a nail polish bottle for moistening stamps leads to another. The bottles are also good for keeping left-over paint. You can touch up small tips and scratches with the brush. . . . There's a new greeting-card box for mailing one cigar. It's designed for long-distance cigar-passing by new parents.

People: Comedian Jack Durant has his monogram on his shirt cuffs, instead of on the pocket. . . . General U. S. Grant was a Democrat until 1868, the year he ran on the Republican ticket. . . . Of thirty-two Presidents, sixteen were lawyers. Next biggest category—soldiers.

Factuals: The average American spent $10.72 last year for candy. . . . Look to your fishhooks, men. Women membership in angling clubs has increased 45 per cent since 1948.

Odd Items: A man who weighs 140 pounds has enough fat in his body to make seven cakes of soap; enough carbon for 9,000 pencils; phosphorus for 2,000 match heads and enough water to fill a ten-gallon barrel. . . . By the way, the heat generated by lighting an ordinary match reaches a maximum of some 2,700 degrees.

Ten-Second Interviews: Danceman Murray Dale—"Some people are so busy making a living they have no time to live." . . . Copacabana's Ray Steele offers this advice to gals—"To catch the men, watch the scales."

Packing Up: Here we repeat one of the best ways to fold any coat-trouser combination to go in your luggage: Lay trousers out flat and put buttoned-up coat on top (1, left). Fold trouser legs over (2). Fold coat bottom up; pack them away (3). For more helpful diagrams see next item!

Free Booklet: Especially prepared for "Stag Lines" readers, a free pamphlet containing the drawing at left and others is now available. Features include: How to take care of your clothes; two methods of packing; the way to tie a reverse Windsor knot; color harmony chart; size chart and other valuable information. You can get your copy—while the supply holds out—by sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to "Stag Lines" in care of this newspaper.

Pass the Cigars: This week to—Bing Crosby, who has given all the royalties from his recording of "Silent Night" to religious charities. The total thus far is more than $250,000.

withdraw our troops from Korea. No one can deny that the general helped to work out former Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson's disarmament program, which Johnson publicly called an "Eisenhower program." No one can deny that in 1946, the general took an over-hopeful view of Soviet purposes, while other men like Averell Harriman judged more rightly. Papers to prove these points against the general, and other points too, are in the President's bale.

It is safe for Sen. Robert A. Taft to denounce every aspect of our foreign and defense policy, only because Sen. Taft has had no responsibility for foreign and defense policy-making. The general, on the other hand, although humanly fallible, actually made his tremendous contribution and achieved his greatness as a foreign and defense policy-maker. Hence, the advisors who have badgered the general into talking, at times, distinctly like Sen. Taft, may find they have made a very bad mistake. To produce this result is the President's dearest wish.

STAG LINES for men

Matching Pajamas

Desi and Lucille Go Casual

FASHION: Newest thing in matching husband-wife togs are smartly tailored lounging pajamas. They are called "I Love Lucy" pajamas after Lucille Ball's TV show. She and husband Desi Arnaz (at right) are among the first to lounge in the brightly patterned models.

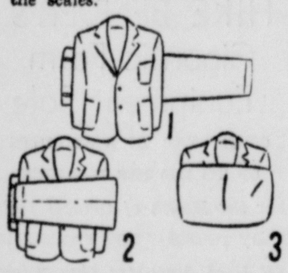

Idea Man: Last week's tip on saving a nail polish bottle for moistening stamps leads to another. The bottles are also good for keeping left-over paint. You can touch up small tips and scratches with the brush. . . . There's a new greeting-card box for mailing one cigar. It's designed for long-distance cigar-passing by new parents.

People: Comedian Jack Durant has his monogram on his shirt cuffs, instead of on the pocket. . . . General U. S. Grant was a Democrat until 1868, the year he ran on the Republican ticket. . . . Of thirty-two Presidents, sixteen were lawyers. Next biggest category—soldiers.

Factuals: The average American spent $10.72 last year for candy. . . . Look to your fishhooks, men. Women membership in angling clubs has increased 45 per cent since 1948.

Odd Items: A man who weighs 140 pounds has enough fat in his body to make seven cakes of soap; enough carbon for 9,000 pencils; phosphorus for 2,000 match heads and enough water to fill a ten-gallon barrel. . . . By the way, the heat generated by lighting an ordinary match reaches a maximum of some 2,700 degrees.

Ten-Second Interviews: Danceman Murray Dale—"Some people are so busy making a living they have no time to live." . . . Copacabana's Ray Steele offers this advice to gals—"To catch the men, watch the scales."

Packing Up: Here we repeat one of the best ways to fold any coat-trouser combination to go in your luggage: Lay trousers out flat and put buttoned-up coat on top (1, left). Fold trouser legs over (2). Fold coat bottom up; pack them away (3). For more helpful diagrams see next item!

Free Booklet: Especially prepared for "Stag Lines" readers, a free pamphlet containing the drawing at left and others is now available. Features include: How to take care of your clothes; two methods of packing; the way to tie a reverse Windsor knot; color harmony chart; size chart and other valuable information. You can get your copy—while the supply holds out—by sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to "Stag Lines" in care of this newspaper.

Pass the Cigars: This week to—Bing Crosby, who has given all the royalties from his recording of "Silent Night" to religious charities. The total thus far is more than $250,000.

In Memoriam

Johnson — In loving memory of my dear wife and our beloved mother, Stella Johnson, who passed away, October 9, 1950.
No one knows how much we miss you.
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered, since we lost you
Life has never been the same.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, fond and true;
There is not a day, dear wife and mother,
That we do not think of you.
Loving husband and children.

In Memoriam

Johnson — In loving memory of my dear wife and our beloved mother, Stella Johnson, who passed away, October 9, 1950.
No one knows how much we miss you.
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered, since we lost you
Life has never been the same.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, fond and true;
There is not a day, dear wife and mother,
That we do not think of you.
Loving husband and children.

Rails Make Best Showing As Market Forges Ahead

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (AP)—The stock market made substantial headway today with railroads making by far the best showing.

Along with the carriers, the steels, motors, aircrafts, oils, and radio-television issues made their mark on the upside.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 70 cents at $106.40 with the industrial component up 70 cents, the railroads up $1.10 and the utilities up 20 cents.

Volume was well ahead of recent days at 1,260,000 shares. That compares with the unusually low total of 950,000 shares traded yesterday.

With the end of the World Series, which was blamed by many for low volume, business perked up a little.

Glenn L. Martin was the day's most active issue up ⅝ at 13¾.

It was followed by Radio Corp. up ⅝ at 28, Socony-Vacuum up ¼ at 33¼, Southern Pacific Railroad up ¼ at 41¼, and International Telephone up ⅝ at 19.

Rails Make Best Showing As Market Forges Ahead

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (AP)—The stock market made substantial headway today with railroads making by far the best showing.

Along with the carriers, the steels, motors, aircrafts, oils, and radio-television issues made their mark on the upside.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 70 cents at $106.40 with the industrial component up 70 cents, the railroads up $1.10 and the utilities up 20 cents.

Volume was well ahead of recent days at 1,260,000 shares. That compares with the unusually low total of 950,000 shares traded yesterday.

With the end of the World Series, which was blamed by many for low volume, business perked up a little.

Glenn L. Martin was the day's most active issue up ⅝ at 13¾.

It was followed by Radio Corp. up ⅝ at 28, Socony-Vacuum up ¼ at 33¼, Southern Pacific Railroad up ¼ at 41¼, and International Telephone up ⅝ at 19.

Also advancing were Atlantic Coast Line 2⅛ at 106¾, Illinois Central 1⅛ at 72⅞, New York Central ¼ at 18⅛, Nickel Plate 1½ at 42¾, Standard Oil N. J. ⅞ at 74¾, American Telephone ⅛ at 153⅛, Anaconda Copper ½ at 40½, American Cyanamid ¾ at 57¾, American Can ⅞ at 33⅜, Bethlehem Steel ½ at 49¼, General Motors ⅞ at 60⅞, Chrysler ½ at 84¾, United Aircraft ⅝ at 35⅝, Admiral Corp. 1⅛ at 32½, and Zenith Radio 3⅛ at 84⅞.

Nearby Towns Get Invitations To Exposition

Frostburg Mayor Cites Cooperation

Miss Western Maryland in the person of Miss Lorraine Sager invited the people of five Allegany and Garrett County communities yesterday to attend the Greater Cumberland Industrial Exposition next Thursday, Friday and Saturday, and got a hearty response from every point she visited.

At Frostburg, Mayor Jesse F. Jacobs assured her that many residents of Frostburg would accept the invitation to attend the Cumberland event. Then, as a surprise, he presented to her, on behalf of the townspeople of Frostburg, an orchid-colored pair of pajamas.

Mayor Jacobs said he believes that what helps Cumberland also helps the rest of Allegany County and, likewise, what helps Frostburg also helps Cumberland and Allegany County.

It is very much a case, the mayor said, "where we have our ups and downs together."

Raising Industrial Fund

He pointed out to Miss Sager that Frostburg, like Cumberland, is trying to bolster its employment situation and explained that his community is in the midst of a campaign to raise funds for use in keeping the M. Berkowitz Pajama factory in Frostburg.

"We want to build a new plant for the factory and keep its present employment of 200 people," said Mayor Jacobs, and he added that with completion of a new plant there is a distinct possibility that employment would be increased to 350, almost double the present figure.

"That would be just like getting a new industry employing 150 workers," Mayor Jacobs said as he proudly pointed out that Frostburg's fund drive now has exceeded $60,000.

While Miss Sager was visiting in Frostburg, Mayor Jacobs also showed her one of Frostburg's newer but treasured possessions.

That is a flag of Thoburn Post 21, Grand Army of the Republic, Frostburg, which will be framed and hung in the city hall. The flag, measuring roughly four by six feet, is a handsome trophy from post-Civil War days and was turned over to the city for preservation.

Besides Mayor Jacobs, Miss Sager was greeted in Frostburg by Miss Margaret Kidwell, assistant city clerk, and Howard Ward.

When Miss Sager presented her invitation to Mayor James Ross at Friendsville, he told her he was happy to accept the invitation and was happy that Friendsville was recognized.

Cumberland Is Center

"We appreciate," said Mayor Ross, "that a city the size of Cumberland recognizes our little town." He added that Cumberland is the shopping and medical center for most of the residents of his community.

Miss Sager yesterday also presented invitations to Howard R. Stevens, trial magistrate at Mt. Savage; Lee Beachy, mayor of Grantsville, and Frank E. Spoerlein, mayor of Accident.

The latter invitation was accepted by the mayor's son, Francis, who explained that his father was unable to be present because of illness in the family.

All expressed the hope that they would be able to attend the exposition and added that they intended to make the invitation known to their townspeople.

The "good neighbor" tour, last of a series to invite the people of the immediate tri-state area to attend the exposition, will end on Friday when visits are scheduled to Meyersdale, Berlin, Bedford and Hyndman, Pa.

Accompanying Miss Sager yesterday were Lynn C. Lashley, representing the Chamber of Commerce, Mrs. Lashley and A. T. Brust, Jr., managing editor of The Cumberland News.

Forest Fire Loss In State Shows Decline

Maryland showed a decrease both in acreage burned and number of forest fires in 1951, according to a report released this week by American Forest Products Industries.

A total of 419 fires burned 2,345 acres last year. This compares to 632 fires that burned 2,978 acres in 1950. Careless smokers were responsible for 156 fires, and debris burners started 94.

Maryland's excellent forest protection record was mirrored nationally. The nation's 1951 acreage burn was 10,780,622—one-third less than the previous all-time low record recorded in 1949.

"An alert public, aware of its responsibilities for being careful with fire in the woods, deserves much credit for keeping the nation's forest fire losses down," says James C. McClellan, chief forester for AFPI. "The increased effectiveness of fire fighting units, expanded use of radio communication and power equipment in the woods, and the extension of organized protection have been major factors in cutting fire losses," Chief Forester McClellan adds.

Maryland's forest protection record is carefully analyzed in a statistical report now being distributed by AFPI, national coordinator of the Keep Green forest fire prevention campaign underway in 33 states.

The AFPI report, based on U. S. Forest Service figures, lists Maryland as one of 31 states that provide organized protection for all their woodlands.

The new officers will be installed at the October 22 meeting at Central YMCA by Addison Rinker, who was the group's first president.

Tucker County Man Named "W. Va. Teacher Of Year"

Nelson A. Williams, oldest teacher in Tucker County, W. Va., who has taught more than 1,500 students and three generations of children in his half century of teaching, yesterday was named West Virginia's Most Outstanding Retired Teacher of the Year.

In June, the veteran instructor was named Most Outstanding Retired Teacher of the Year for Tucker County and honored by educators' groups there.

Williams will be guest of honor at the West Virginia State Education Association meeting in Charleston October 16 and 17.

The noted Tucker County teacher has completed over a half century of teaching and taught for 42 years in Bull Run School in Licking District.

In addition, Williams is an elder in the Church of the Brethren in Parsons and has conducted funerals for over 30 years.

For over 50 years he has been a Sunday School superintendent and was a member of Tucker County Court for 14 years. Also added to his accomplishments, he is known as the outstanding auctioneer of Tucker County.

He has served as a petit and grand juror for the Federal Court in Elkins and has been a notary public since 1918.

Beall Says Labor Shuns Mahoney

[By The Associated Press]

"It has now become perfectly obvious that labor unions are again refusing to endorse my opponent for public office," J. Glenn Beall, the Republican Senate nominee said last night.

Beall issued the statement through his Baltimore office while the candidate himself was touring Southern Maryland.

"Labor knows an enemy when they see one," Beall said of George P. Mahoney, the Democratic candidate for senate.

The campaigning Republican defended his vote for the Taft-Hartley Act, which he described as "that much maligned bill, which has yet to be proved unfair to the working men, regardless of Mr. Truman's opinion."

The Republican representative from the Sixth Maryland District said he knew the bill was "far from perfect" and added that he had voted for "19 separate amendments" to it.

Beall continued his door-to-door campaign in Southern Maryland yesterday, visiting La Plata, Waldorf, Leonardtown and other points in Charles and St. Mary's Counties.

He attended no political rallies, but pressed the personal, handshaking type of visitations he has used since he began the race for the Senate.

Mahoney, meanwhile, invaded the Republican voting county of Montgomery, speaking Tuesday night in Olney where he called for the sending of more "conservative-minded men" to Washington.

"Spending any more money abroad is absolutely silly. Charity begins at home," Mahoney told the Olney Rotary Club.

The Democratic candidate also called for curbs on defense spending, "the kind that comes from inefficiency and waste we've had in the past."

He also toured Laytonsville and Damascus.

County CD Staff To Get Briefing On Explosives

A joint meeting of county and city Civil Defense workers will be held Thursday, October 16, at 8 p. m. in City Hall Auditorium, William G. Barger, county CD director, announced yesterday.

Purpose of the meeting is to give workers a briefing on an explosive to make plans for participation in the Greater Cumberland Industrial Exhibition.

Present to give the briefing will be members of the 549th Explosive Ordnance reconnaisance course and Ordnance Disposal Detachment, of Baltimore, an Army outfit which is cooperating with Civil Defense in Maryland.

The group will give a one hour orientation course at City Hall for Civil Defense workers on a 12-hour course which will be presented here this winter.

The course will be designed to teach Civil Defense workers how to recognize unexploded bombs and how to present reports to disposal units.

The task of rendering such bombs or shells safe is up to Ordnance units of the Army, officials said, but prompt and accurate reporting will be the responsibility of Civil Defense units.

Barger said the Ordnance team will sponsor an exhibit at the exposition and will answer questions the public may have on the program.

The exhibits will include large bombs and a Civil Defense rescue truck.

Planned on the morning of October 16 will be a public demonstration on Baltimore Street near Rosenbaum's.

Similar demonstrations will be given at Frostburg, Lonaconing and Westernport the following day.

The other victim's in the 24-hour period were James D. Cayton, 21, of Keyser, W. Va., brought to Memorial Hospital here Tuesday night for removal of pellets from his face and upper body, and William A. Lange, 32, wounded in the right side.

Police said Cayton's brother-in-law, Franklin L. Myers, 27, had mistaken him for a squirrel. Lange was wounded on Big Savage Mountain earlier in the day when he was mistaken for a turkey by Cpl. Fred D. Peterson, 25, home on furlough from the Army and Lange's companion on the hunting trip.

Forest Fire Loss In State Shows Decline

Maryland showed a decrease both in acreage burned and number of forest fires in 1951, according to a report released this week by American Forest Products Industries.

A total of 419 fires burned 2,345 acres last year. This compares to 632 fires that burned 2,978 acres in 1950. Careless smokers were responsible for 156 fires, and debris burners started 94.

Maryland's excellent forest protection record was mirrored nationally. The nation's 1951 acreage burn was 10,780,622—one-third less than the previous all-time low record recorded in 1949.

"An alert public, aware of its responsibilities for being careful with fire in the woods, deserves much credit for keeping the nation's forest fire losses down," says James C. McClellan, chief forester for AFPI. "The increased effectiveness of fire fighting units, expanded use of radio communication and power equipment in the woods, and the extension of organized protection have been major factors in cutting fire losses," Chief Forester McClellan adds.

Maryland's forest protection record is carefully analyzed in a statistical report now being distributed by AFPI, national coordinator of the Keep Green forest fire prevention campaign underway in 33 states.

The AFPI report, based on U. S. Forest Service figures, lists Maryland as one of 31 states that provide organized protection for all their woodlands.

Beall Says Labor Shuns Mahoney

[By The Associated Press]

"It has now become perfectly obvious that labor unions are again refusing to endorse my opponent for public office," J. Glenn Beall, the Republican Senate nominee said last night.

Beall issued the statement through his Baltimore office while the candidate himself was touring Southern Maryland.

"Labor knows an enemy when they see one," Beall said of George P. Mahoney, the Democratic candidate for senate.

The campaigning Republican defended his vote for the Taft-Hartley Act, which he described as "that much maligned bill, which has yet to be proved unfair to the working men, regardless of Mr. Truman's opinion."

The Republican representative from the Sixth Maryland District said he knew the bill was "far from perfect" and added that he had voted for "19 separate amendments" to it.

Beall continued his door-to-door campaign in Southern Maryland yesterday, visiting La Plata, Waldorf, Leonardtown and other points in Charles and St. Mary's Counties.

He attended no political rallies, but pressed the personal, handshaking type of visitations he has used since he began the race for the Senate.

Mahoney, meanwhile, invaded the Republican voting county of Montgomery, speaking Tuesday night in Olney where he called for the sending of more "conservative-minded men" to Washington.

"Spending any more money abroad is absolutely silly. Charity begins at home," Mahoney told the Olney Rotary Club.

The Democratic candidate also called for curbs on defense spending, "the kind that comes from inefficiency and waste we've had in the past."

He also toured Laytonsville and Damascus.

County CD Staff To Get Briefing On Explosives

A joint meeting of county and city Civil Defense workers will be held Thursday, October 16, at 8 p. m. in City Hall Auditorium, William G. Barger, county CD director, announced yesterday.

Purpose of the meeting is to give workers a briefing on an explosive to make plans for participation in the Greater Cumberland Industrial Exhibition.

Present to give the briefing will be members of the 549th Explosive Ordnance reconnaisance course and Ordnance Disposal Detachment, of Baltimore, an Army outfit which is cooperating with Civil Defense in Maryland.

The group will give a one hour orientation course at City Hall for Civil Defense workers on a 12-hour course which will be presented here this winter.

The course will be designed to teach Civil Defense workers how to recognize unexploded bombs and how to present reports to disposal units.

The task of rendering such bombs or shells safe is up to Ordnance units of the Army, officials said, but prompt and accurate reporting will be the responsibility of Civil Defense units.

Barger said the Ordnance team will sponsor an exhibit at the exposition and will answer questions the public may have on the program.

The exhibits will include large bombs and a Civil Defense rescue truck.

Planned on the morning of October 16 will be a public demonstration on Baltimore Street near Rosenbaum's.

Similar demonstrations will be given at Frostburg, Lonaconing and Westernport the following day.
